INDIA GETS ACCESS TO SPECIAL GLOBAL ANTI-CRIME NETWORK

Indian agencies can now instantly check Interpol's 126 million records, including DNA profiles and facial recognition images

AGENCIES CAN TRACK ABSCONDING CRIMINALS

The new facility will help India's investigating agencies track absconding criminals and tackle transnational crimes. "India has already seen significant results," said Jürgen Stock, secretary-general, Interpol, who is in Delhi to attend the 90th General Assembly of Interpol. Delegations from over 190 countries are attending the four-day event, starting Tuesday

3 cave-ins in 4 weeks on Sankey Tank Rd set off alarm

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

THREE cave-ins in four weeks on Sankey Tank Road in Bengaluru have set off alarm bells for the authorities as they appear to indicate a possible breach that could be disastrous for people living in the adjoining low-lying area of Vyalikaval. The road is on the dam-like structure that separates the lake water spread over 37 acres from Vyalikaval which houses thousands of families in the vicinity of the famous Chowdiah Memorial Hall.

BBMP has admitted to the seriousness of the situation. After two cave-ins on the Sankey Tank Road surface last month — which forced the authorities to seal the traffic lane towards Yeshwanthpur and fill up the caved-in sections — the BBMP has again sealed the same lane after the third cave-in on Sunday.

BS Prahalad, BBMP Chief Engineer (Road and Infrastructure), said, "Sankey Tank Road has become a grave issue and we're taking it seriously. There is some seepage occurring under the road, but we have yet to pinpoint the location. While the seepage might be anywhere, it will affect some parts of the road, we are trying to identify ingress."

It is suspected that roots of trees on the slope are growing inside the structure which could be causing hollows leading to cave-ins. Prahalad said an agency has been hired to assess the damage to the road that is not visible to the eye. CONTINUED ON: P2

Jaya death: Panel indicts Sasi, faults ex-minister, food secy

T MURUGANANDHAM @Chennai

THE Arumughaswamy Commission, which inquired into the death of former Chief Minister J Jayalalithaa, has indicted VK Sasikala, her close aide of more than three decades, and found fault with her as well as then Health Minister C Vijayabaskar, then Health Secretary J Radhakrishnan (now Food secretary) and Dr KS Sivakumar, a relative of Sasikala who was the late CM's physician.

"Considering various aspects, the Commission is constrained to come to no other conclusion, but to indict VK Sasikala. She and KS Sivakumar, Dr C Vijayabaskar and J Radhakrishnan have to be found at fault and an investigation should be ordered against them," the 480-page report said.

After the report was tabled in the Assembly on Tuesday, Tamil Nadu government issued an order (G.O) dated October 17 stating it would act on the panel's recommendations after getting 'considered opinions' from legal experts as decided by the State Cabinet in its August 29 meeting.

Asking why Jayalalithaa's heart condition was not treated as recommended by some of the consulting doctors, the Commission also recommended a probe be initiated against then Chief Secretary Rama Mohana Rao as well as Dr YVC Reddy and Dr Babu Abraham of the hospital where she was treated.

"Dr YVC Reddy and Dr Babu Abraham treated the late CM all along and though they invited doctors from Mumbai, UK and USA and got an opinion from them, apart from the hospital's own doctor, suggesting doing angio/surgery, they successfully threw it to the wind on the pretext of postponing it, to achieve their aim under some pressure," the report said.

The Commission found criminality against Rama Mohana Rao. "Except that he had not addressed a letter and intimated to the government regarding his signature in 21 forms on various dates for the procedural aspects... Of course, it is a man-made vital lapse and he would reap the consequences, especially because the life of the late CM was involved. Hence, an investigation is to be ordered," it added.

The Commission also questioned the delay in officially declaring Jayalalitha's death. It said the hospital declared the date and time of her death as December 5, 2016, at 11.30 pm. But, on the basis of evidence submitted, it concluded she died on December 4, 2016, between 3pm and 3.50 pm.

"There is a gross variation with the version of the paramedical personnel who physically attended to the late CM when she was sinking in her hospital bed," the Commis sion said.

Honour killing: Bagalkot couple hacked

MAHESH M GOUDAR & VITTAL BALAKUNDI @Bagalkot

IN a suspected case of honour killing, a 24-year-old man and an 18-year-old girl were hacked to death by the family members of the girl in Bagalkot.

The victims are Vishwanath Nelgi, a daily wage labourer, and Rajeshwari Karadi, both residents of Bevinamatti village near Bagalkot. The incident reportedly occurred on September 30 and came to light after the police launched an investigation after a kidnap complaint was filed by the family members of the deceased girl.

A police officer said, "The man and girl were in a relationship for the past two years. When it came to the knowledge of the girl's family, they strongly opposed it by saying that the boy belonged to a lower caste. Both families have had an altercation in the past over the issue of caste."

ACCUSED OF THEFT, DALIT MAN DIES AFTER ASSAULT

Tumakuru: A Dalit man died at a hospital, days after he was beaten up by his employer for allegedly stealing bananas from his farm at Itaka Dibbanahalli village in Madhugiri taluk. The victim is Purushottam Prasad (35). The accused Balaji Reddy of Kalenahalli has been arrested. On September 29, Prasad went to the accused to demand his wages for working in his plantain farm. Accusing him of stealing bananas, the accused along with others subjected him to torture and handed him over to the Kodigenahalli police. SP Rahul Kumar Shahpurwad denied allegations by some Dalit forums that the police tortured the victim. ENS

This Diwali, you can burst crackers for only 2 hrs/day

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) has issued a circular allowing bursting of firecrackers during Diwali for two hours between 8 pm and 10 pm every day.

The order makes it clear that only green crackers will be allowed and crackers that add to noise pollution are banned.

The circular says that the BBMP chief commissioner, city police commissioner, Fire and Emergency Services Department, district administrations and Health Department should follow guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court on bursting of firecrackers. Directions have been issued to all districts to measure air and sound pollution on all seven days before and after the festival. CONTINUED ON: P3

Chopper crash kills seven in Kedarnath

NARENDRA SETHI @Dehradun

ALL seven persons onboard a helicopter were killed when the chopper crashed into a hill amid dense fog, soon after taking off from Kedarnath on Tuesday. The helicopter was ferrying six pilgrims — three each from Gujarat and Tamil Nadu — from Kedarnath temple to Guptkashi.

The dead pilgrims have been identified as Poorva Ramanuj (26), Kriti Brar (30) and Urvi Brar (25) from Gujarat, and Sujatha Premkumar (56), Premkumar Vanchinathan and Kala Ramesh (60) from Tamil Nadu. Pilot Anil Singh (57), hailed from Maharashtra.

Reports said the chopper — a Bell 407 operated by Aryan Aviation — crashed into a hill 2 km away and burst into flames at around 11.45 am at Dev Darshini in Rudraprayag's Garud Chatti, within a few seconds of taking off.

Following the accident, all heliservices to and from Kedarnath were stopped.

Officials said prima-facie, the cause appears to be bad weather, adding that teams of Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau and aviation regulator DGCA will probe the crash. Aryan Aviation and four other operators flying on the Kedarnath Yatra route were recently fined ₹5 lakh by the DGCA for violations.

President Droupadi Murmu, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia and Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M K Stalin condoled the loss of lives.

Railway underpass for reptiles in W Ghats soon

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

THE Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEFCC) is working on a proposal to install 'U-shaped ditches' under the existing railway tracks passing through the wildlife corridors of the Western Ghats in order to save turtles, reptiles and other creatures.

In a letter to Minister of MoEFCC Bhupendra Yadav and Minister of Railways Ashwini Vaishnaw, a wildlife activist from Mangaluru, Nagaraj Devadiga has drawn their attention to many creatures getting injured or killed while crossing the railway tracks in the Western Ghats and urged them to build U-shaped concrete ditches between Kabaka Puttur and Hassan (139 km) which comes under the South Western Railway.

"Western Ghats is home to at least 325 globally threatened species, including 51 critically endangered ones. Of these, 28 species of freshwater turtles (two of which are endangered), 91 species of snakes, 75 species of crabs and four species of lizards migrate to other parts of Western Ghats for breeding and while doing so, they get injured or killed while crossing the tracks," Devadiga said. P5

In April 2015, the West Japan Railways created U-shaped concrete ditches under tracks enabling turtles and other creatures to crawl to the other side without getting run over by trains

RUN OVER BY KSRTC BUS, WOMAN DIES OF INJURIES

State-run transporter, BBMP undecided over compensation to victim's kin

Two-wheelers precariously negotiate a water-filled pothole on Jayamahal Road in Bengaluru on Tuesday | VINOD KUMAR T

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

THE woman pillion-rider, Uma Devi (47), who suffered grievous injuries on Monday morning near Sujata Theatre, after a bus ran over her, breathed her last the same night.

Doctors attending on Uma told her family that she was not responding to treatment, and her bleeding was not stopping. Meanwhile, the family members of the deceased blamed the city's infamous potholes for her death.

On Monday, Uma, seated pillion, sustained serious injuries when her daughter, who was riding the two-wheeler, lost control and fell while trying to avoid a pothole near Lulu Mall in Binnypet. A Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) bus moving next to them ran over Uma's leg.

Meanwhile, it is alleged that both KSRTC and BBMP were undecided in terms of providing compensation to the victim's kin.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath had stated on Monday that the Palike was not named in the traffic police report, and affirmed that as per the report, the accident occurred due to the KSRTC driver's negligence, and nowhere any pothole was mentioned as being the cause. The Palike by its statement has indicated that it would not give any compensation.

Meanwhile, the KSRTC, which is also being blamed for the accident, has conducted an internal inquiry and claimed in its preliminary report that it is not 'guilty' for the same. However, once a chargesheet is filed by the traffic police, it would plead its case.

"The two-wheeler rider came under the wheels of our bus. There is no fault from our side. As per provisions, if a pedestrian or vehicle is hit by a KSRTC bus, we will compensate. But in this case, the two-wheeler rider came and fell under the wheels of the moving bus," claimed a senior KSRTC official.

Meanwhile, the victim's daughter, Vinitha, told reporters that when she was riding, she lost balance after encountering a pothole. She fell down along with her mother, who was run over by the Shivamogga-bound KSRTC bus.

The victim was rushed to ESI Hospital, where doctors said that there was internal bleeding and she was not responding to treatment.

BBMP spends ₹30 cr a year to fix potholes, says Girinath

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Palike will fill up all the 22,000 potholes that were pointed out in the 'Fix My Street' mobile app, while most of them have already been fixed, said BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath on Tuesday. He began the inspection of roads in the East zone from the spot where a woman was knocked down by a KSRTC bus on Monday. The woman, who died on Tuesday, was on the pillion and fell down when her daughter who was riding the two-wheeler tried to avoid a pothole near Sujatha Theatre. Girinath said, "A pothole near the theatre has been filled. There is no official confirmation that the woman died because of the pothole. We will take further action based on the police report." He said the BBMP spends nearly Rs 30 crore to fix potholes every year. During the inspection, he was unhappy with the quality of basic facilities and warned local officials. He inspected Vatal Nagaraj Road, Rajkumar Road, Rajajinagar 6th Block Circle, Magadi Junction to West of Chord Road, Toll Gate Junction, Jai Munirao Circle and Housing Board Junction. He told officials to remove encroachments and repair footpaths in front of Lulu Mall.

He suggested that posters pasted on the walls in front of Sujata Theatre and flexes in surrounding areas be removed. He directed officials to prune branches of roadside trees. Noticing OFC cables hanging low, he said disciplinary action will be taken against officials if cables and tree branches are not taken care of.

Fire personnel search for 3-year-old Kabir who allegedly drowned in a drain, in Varthur limits, in Bengaluru on Tuesday

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR KABIR

BENGALURU: Fire and Emergency and SDRF teams on Tuesday continued the search to trace 3-year-old Kabir, who was washed away in a rajakaluve in Varthur last Sunday. However, there are no clues yet about the boy. Police said the search is under way and will continue till Wednesday. "If the boy is not traced, we will stop the search operation," they said. SDRF experts said water gushing through the drain connects to a big lake, which makes it challenging to trace the boy. "Police recovered CCTV footage from a nearby apartment block, which shows Kabir and the girl going together to play, and only the girl returns home to inform her parents about the incident," an officer said. After cave-in, new tar peels off at jinxed Kundalahalli

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

AFTER Silk Board traffic memes, Kundalahalli has become the butt of a joke fest. Just last week, a newly-built underpass caved in here, prompting the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike to swing into action and repair it.

However, continuous spells of rain for three days have exposed the shoddy repair work: citizens who wish to do a road quality check can scuff the spot with a shoe, and watch the tar peel off and the loose gravel spread around. The test exposes that BBMP has used cheap material.

According to reports, Rs 19.5 crore was spent on underpass work to facilitate smooth traffic at Graphite India Road, Whitefield Road and Varthur.

The underpass was thrown open to the public a few months ago, after Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai went on a surprise inspection in June. The underpass was built by RNS Infrastructure Limited. The contractor's job was to asphalt the road and also shift the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) pipeline.

Tar seen peeling off a newly constructed road in Kundalahalli, in Bengaluru on Tuesday | EXPRESS

"Due to seepage, a sinkhole developed and the contractor was asked to fix it. BBMP did not spend any money on repair work," said a BBMP engineer, and added that there was no damage to the underpass. Only the edge of the road near the junction caved in, and was again filled up with material and retarred. Unaware of the road work peeling off, Special Commissioner P N Ravindra told TNIE, "The work is only temporary, and once the rain stops, work will be executed neatly," he said.

BBMP has been turned into troll material by netizens for its road works, with residents pointing out potholes across the city. It has given residents another chance to lash out at the civic body.

Road from Mehkri Circle to Cauvery Jn to be widened

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE State Government informed the High Court that following a meeting chaired by the CM, it has been decided that the Ballari Road will be widened from 4-lane to 6-lane between Mekhri Circle and Cauvery Theatre Junction.

The stretch to be widened is about 1,260 metres. From a 6-lane road near Mehkri Circle, it narrows near Gate 4 of Gayatri Vihar. This stretch, of about 630 metres length and 3-3.5 metres width, ends up as a 2-lane road from 3-lane up to Cauvery junction. The width of the right-hand lane will be increased from 7.5 metres to 9.5 metres, while the left side, which now stands at 6.5 metres, will be increased to 9.5 metres. With this, the stretch will become three lanes on both sides.

An affidavit was filed by Additional Chief Secretary (Urban Development Department) Rakesh Singh, to that effect to the court, which asked the government to point out the extent of road widening which would be done on the said stretch, during the hearing of a PIL filed by Samarpana Cultural and Social Organisation.

Taking the affidavit on record, a division bench of Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale and Justice Ashok S Kinagi directed the BBMP Chief Commissioner to file an affidavit, indicating assistance and permission to be given without any further delay to widen the road.

INPUT TAX CREDIT

Anti-profiteering body issues notice to Mantri

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

INVESTIGATIONS by the Directorate General of Anti-Profiteering have revealed that builder Mantri Castles Private Limited have not passed on the benefit of input tax credit totalling over Rs 22.2 crore to 539 home buyers for its project 'Mantri Serenity'. The authority has asked the builder to furnish an explanation in this regard before October 24.

This followed an application filed before the authority by a couple Santosh Patil and C Pratibha, who sought a refund of the Input Tax Credit under GST paid by them for their flat in Mantri Serenity on Kanakapura Main Road. Under Section 171 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, it is incumbent on the builder to reduce the basic price for buyers, so that they benefit from the additional input tax credit.

The couple had booked a 3BHK flat, R-1903, in Block 5 of the residential project in the pre-GST period, for which the agreement was entered into on December 31, 2014. Patil told TNIE, "The cost of our flat is Rs 1 crore and 10 lakh. The GST that needs to be reimbursed to us is for Rs 1 crore and 1 lakh, which we have already paid in two instaalments – one in 2017 and another in 2018."

On the basis of their complaint, the authority conducted an investigation on the project between July 1, 2017, and May 31, 2022. The authority in its report, an order copy of which is in the possession of TNIE, has concluded: "The Noticee has been found to have profiteered an amount of Rs 22,22,52,221, which includes the 12% GST amount over the basic price. The above said computation of profiteering is in respect of 539 home buyers in whose case positive demands have been raised or advances received." It added that the applicants (the couple) had to be paid Rs 2,34,203."

Representatives of Mantri Serenity did not respond to calls or messages from TNIE in this connection.

Complaint against RERA chief to Lokayukta

A home buyer in Mantri Serenity, P Dhananjaya, filed a complaint with the Lokayukta on October 15, against RERA Chairman Kishore Chandra, alleging dereliction of duty. "My flat was supposed to be handed over to me in 2016 by Mantri, but they failed to do so. Hence, I approached RERA for help. Despite the passage of two years, RERA had not taken any action. So, I decided to approach the National Consumer Disputes Redressal Forum, and also decided to withdraw my complaint from RERA. The authority issued an order, saying a settlement has been arrived at between the two parties, and so the case was closed. This is completely untrue as no settlement had been reached, and hence, I approached the Lokayukta on Saturday," Dhananjaya said. A source claimed it was a clerical error, which is being blown out of proportion. "There is a standard template used whenever a case is closed and the Chairman had signed on it. It needs to be rectified. It is just a technical error," he added.

'Sankey Tank area development unscientific'

PRIOR to Sunday's sinkhole, the road had witnessed sinkholes during heavy rain last month. While residents noticed an increase in flooding and other issues, they seem assured that drainage into the nearby rajakaluve would remedy the problem.

However, what threatens the low-lying area is the possible hollows that could be caused within the road structure (which may be causing the road cave-ins) that contains the man-made Sankey lake from spilling into and flooding parts of Vyalikaval — a disastrous situation considering that the area is densely populated.

Shivaraj R Biradar, an executive member of the CPI, Karnataka State Council, whose office is located near Chowdiah Memorial Hall, said, "Over the last two years, there has been excessive flooding and other issues in the area as a direct result of the development of the lake. The excess concrete for the park and walkway on the lake's perimeter has led to the lake becoming smaller and smaller, with less place for the water to go. The buildings are at the same level as the bottom of the lake."

He said the trees on the slope towards the parallel road were also barely hanging on. "The entire development of the area is very unscientific and unsustainable. If the entire road collapses, the area will be flooded with many being displaced," he told TNIE. Sisters from nearby Stella Maris School said the lake had been affected by the development of the park. "There has been severe flooding in the school. If you dig the mud on the slope, water gushes out. The seepage of the water through the mud means that our kitchen and eating area, which is in the basement, gets flooded up to the calf," one of the sisters told TNIE.

Urbanist V Ravichandar said his best guess to the issues faced was due to excessive rain and insufficient drainage.

19th October: As if we didn't have enough to worry about, doom-mongers are getting worked up by the discovery that our galaxy - the Milky Way - is being invaded by another, the 'Sagittarius dwarf galaxy'. Don't worry - it's on the other side of our galaxy, millions of light years away, and it's only one tenth the size of the Milky Way. Happy to say, the chance of being squashed by a random star is nil!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Look far afield for stimulation. If you're about to go around the world, that's perfect. Otherwise, try to introduce a hint of adventure into your life at home. Also, give a priority to religious feelings or mystical aspirations. After all, what you really need at the moment is a sense of personal meaning.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You're still probably in an obstinate and unbending mood. I won't advise you to compromise, for only you know what is best, but I would advise you to be very careful about when you take on a partner in a trial of wills. Only fight battles you know you can win!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There's still a high chance of an argument, but that's a good thing if it helps clear the air. A difference of opinion could actually ease suspicions and fears, because everything will be out in the open, so a flexible, pragmatic and sensitive approach suits your purposes best.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You probably feel swamped by responsibilities, but there are indications that an increase in your burden is purely temporary. There is no better time to deepen your involvement in a charitable enterprise, and helping others is actually a great way to feel good.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Children should form a more important part of your life. This means that even if they're not making demands, you should still go out and see in what ways you can help, cajole and encourage younger people. You might even draw some fresh inspiration from their attitudes and opinions.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Your daily planetary cycles indicate a very strong emphasis on home and family affairs, but the monthly pattern places the emphasis on work. In love, you have two weeks before a final choice is necessary. The question is, do you want to please yourself - or somebody else?

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Mercury and Neptune are a strange pair of planets. One loves facts, the other lives by its dreams. Yet by a strange series of coincidences they are about to have a very inspired effect on your home and family life. What could be better? Just remember to keep up to date with practical commitments, though, or you'll risk stirring up chaos.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The facts may be against you but that doesn't mean that you're wrong. There are different ways of being right, and you have a feeling for the real inner meaning, even if you have difficulty putting it into words. If other people don't understand you, then that's their problem. Give them time to catch up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You are being singled out for celestial attention, but that's not always such a good thing. When all eyes are on you, your behaviour must be impeccable, and the result is that you tend to feel a little hemmed in. You'll increase your freedom to manoeuvre with just a little fancy footwork.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The question is not what to do but how to do it. Secrecy may be more advisable than a public display. Also, selflessness is much better than selfishness, even if you do feel it's time you had a fair crack of the whip. Be patient; your time will come - and sooner than you think.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The Sun is currently directing all attention in your horoscope towards activities which are self-satisfying and creative. It would be a shame if you didn't use the current time to achieve something of lasting value. I know other people are putting extra demands on you, but perhaps they can be persuaded to back off - just a little.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
If I told you that the area of your chart ruling professional and worldly ambitions was imaginative, freedom-loving and almost impossible to pin down, you'd probably know what I mean. That's why your hopes are so high, but also why you need to see the world the way in which more cautious colleagues do.

Finally, woman leaves Oman to see hubby's body

Rajeshwari was working as domestic help, got stranded due to unscrupulous agent

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A fortnight after her husband passed away in Bengaluru, Rajeshwari boarded a flight from Muscat to catch a final glimpse of him.

The 45-year-old mother of two sons went to Oman to work as a domestic help over a year ago, and got stranded there, thanks to an unscrupulous agent. Her ailing husband, meanwhile, passed away due to health problems at their house near Hessarghatta Post in North Bengaluru.

Her older son R Arun, who works as a school bus driver, told TNIE, "My father was ailing due to kidney-related issues and breathing problems, and she was desperate to return and take care of him. But she was not allowed to leave Oman. He passed away on October 3, and respecting her desire to see him one last time and perform some rituals, we are preserving his body."

The family has kept the body in a special box with ice packs near their house, and are awaiting her arrival. "We have availed the services of an individual who embalms bodies," he said.

P A Hamid Padubidri, an Udupi native employed with a private firm in Saudi Arabia, and who works as a pro bono lawyer for the labour workforce in UAE, told TNIE over phone, "I just got the good news through my contacts that Rajeshwari will be repatriated tonight (Tuesday) to India. She also sent me a voice message. She was relieved when she was finally given travel documents and a ticket by the Indian Embassy."

Rajeshwari was facing a major hurdle in reaching India as she was brought to Oman on a tourist visa by an agent from Bengaluru. Padubidri said, "The tourist visa has one-month validity and can be extended to a maximum of three months, with another 10-day grace period. The agent handed her over to another agent in Oman, who sent her to a sponsor's house near Muscat. Backbreaking work for 18 hours, plus her asthma, made her want to leave but the family insisted that she pay back Rs 2 lakh the sponsor had paid the agent for hiring her."

A month ago, Rajeshwari escaped. "She packed her belongings and flagged down a taxi at 4am. She reached the Indian Embassy, 160km away. For the past month, she has been waiting there for her papers to be cleared to go home. She needed to pay at least Rs 1 lakh (500 Oman Riyals) as fine to the Oman government for overstaying her tourist visa. Every day, she was given hope that she would be allowed to go, explained the lawyer who was in regular touch with her and was interacting with embassy officials on her behalf.

Youth loses control of bike, rams divider, pillion dies

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BIRTHDAY celebrations turned tragic for a youngster after he rammed his bike into the road divider on Jakkur flyover. His pillion, 20-year-old Sana Sahiba died, while his right hand was severed and his condition is said to be critical.

The accident occurred on KIA Road in Yelahanka traffic police limits.

It was Zeeshan's birthday on Tuesday, and the duo was going on a ride towards the airport, when he lost control of the bike and rammed the road divider. Sahiba sustained fatal head injuries, while Zeeshan's right hand was severed at the shoulder due to the impact.

Sana Sahiba is a resident of Chinnappa Garden, near Benson Town, and was a PU student of a private college in Fraser Town.

"Both were rushed to hospital, where Sahiba was declared brought dead. Zeeshan is undergoing treatment and his condition is critical. Overspeeding is the reason for the accident," Yelahanka traffic police added.

KARNATAKA ON ALERT FOR NEW OMICRON VARIANTS

NAMRATA SINDWANI @ Bengaluru

RISING Covid cases in Maharashtra and the emergence of Omicron's new variants, with Pune reporting the first BQ.1 case in India, has put neighbouring Karnataka on alert.

Dr MK Sudarshan, chairman, Karnataka Covid-19 Technical Committee, said no cases of the new variants have been found in the state yet. However, he said the department is watchful for the emergence of the new sub-variants of Omicron, and advised citizens to mask up, particularly outdoors.

He explained that Omicron is a variety of RNA virus (Ribonucleic Acid) and has the potential to grow, hence, the department has been extra careful since 2021. Genomic sequencing labs have been alerted to identify new variants possibly emerging locally as well.

With the festive season coming up, experts have raised concerns that the new virus can cause a rise in the number of cases. Dr Sudarshan advised citizens to follow the basic protocol of masking up and getting vaccinated, and directed the department to ensure that Covid testing rate does not dip.

The Maharashtra health department had notified that the new variant has a growth advantage over Omicron, and more evasive immune properties.

D Randeep, Commissioner, Health and Family Welfare Services, said that no cases of the new variants were seen in the state as yet, and there are plans to release Covid guidelines for the upcoming festive season soon.

"THE district authorities have been asked to ensure proper disposal of the waste accumulated during the festive days. Air and noise pollution recorded from October 17 to 31 should be sent to the KSPCB by November 5," the circular read.

There is also a rule in place for vendors to sell only green crackers, failing which legal action will be initiated against the shops. The pollution control board said it has installed devices across Bengaluru city and districts to measure pollution. The circular also asked the Health Department and District Administrative Authorities to create awareness among citizens on adopting safety measures while celebrating Diwali.

Will send details of Cong scams to Rahul: Bommai

Chief minister targets Siddaramaiah, says Congress govt covered up its 'scandals'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bidar

TAKING a dig at the Congress over cases of corruption and scams that allegedly took place during the tenure of Siddaramaiah in Karnataka, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has said that he will send information and records about "such scams and corruption cases to Congress leader Rahul Gandhi".

Bommai was speaking at the BJP's Jana Sankalpa Yatra at Aurad near Bidar on Tuesday.

While charging the Congress of indulging in corruption, Bommai said that he would wait and watch for Rahul's response on the allegations made by him.

Rahul would be mainly apprised about the scandals that took place during the term of Siddaramaiah as CM, said Bommai, adding that the details would also include the irregularities that took place in the process of appointment of teachers in 2016 where the appointments were done without inviting applications.

Stepping up his onslaught on the Congress leadership, Bommai said that the Congress government covered up scandals which took place in the appointments of prosecutors and police. On the other side, he said, "We (BJP government) have arrested those involved in PSI appointment irregularities."

He hit out at Siddaramaiah alleging that the latter had nobody to react to his tall claims and speeches. Bommai tried to provoke the former CM asking whether he really had guts.

Claiming that he worked for Karnataka's development despite the Covid-19 pandemic, Bommai said his government had the people's mandate and the people voted for the BJP by stripping the Congress of power. The BJP government implemented several pro-people works for the past three years in the state, he said.

The State Government released compensation to those affected in the recent floods within a month, while the previous Congress government took more than 18 months for the same during its rule, he said.

The State Government set aside Rs 3000 crore in its budget for the development of Kalyana-Karnataka region and the funds would be increased to Rs 5,000 crore in the next budget, the CM promised, adding that his government had already drawn up an action plan in this regard.

CM likely to meet BJP brass on cabinet expansion

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai is likely to visit New Delhi this week to discuss ministry expansion with BJP central leaders. Bommai told reporters in Bengaluru on Tuesday that he had sought time from party central leaders to meet them during the Janasankalpa Yatra this week. Bommai said he will visit New Delhi as soon as the meeting is fixed. He is currently busy with the Janasankalpa Yatra in Kalyana Karnataka districts, and was in Bidar on Tuesday.

BJP general secretary incharge of Karnataka Arun Singh on Saturday stated that ministry expansion is the chief minister's prerogative, and he will take a decision on it.

Many ministerial aspirants in the ruling party are hoping for a cabinet expansion and rejig ahead of elections as five berths are vacant. Many important portfolios, including Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) that was with KS Eshwarappa, Bengaluru Development and Finance are with the CM.

On the Vokkaliga community demand for 12 per cent reservation, Bommai said aspirations of all communities have increased, and there is nothing wrong in seeking reservation. "We have to do it within the ambit of the legal framework and the government will take the decision after examining the Backward Classes Commission report," the Chief Minister said.

Bommai said he had directed police to conduct an inquiry to find out the cause of the accident in Bengaluru on Monday. A woman suffered grievous injuries after the two-wheeler on which she was riding pillion met with an accident while trying to avoid a pothole. She succumbed to her injuries on Tuesday. On the shoddy work done by the civic agency to fill up the potholes, he said it had come to his notice and he had directed officials to ensure proper work.

RAHUL ENTERS AP, THANKS KARYAKARTAS IN K'TAKA

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi's ambitious Bharat Jodo Yatra resumed after a day's break and entered Andhra Pradesh at Halaharavi village on Tuesday. Earlier, Rahul interacted with grassroot workers of the Congress and the yatri group from Karnataka at Sanganakallu village in Ballari district.

Rahul's walk on Tuesday commenced from Halaharvi and concluded at Chagi. The yatra entered Karnataka at Chamarajanagar on September 30 and in the last 17 days, Rahul and his team have walked 430 km in the state.

Congress leaders, who interacted with Rahul on Tuesday, said that the Wayanad MP has asked them to be ready for the 2023 Assembly elections. "Rahul was keen on interaction with grassroot workers in Ballari. He thanked the Karnataka Congress for the arrangements made for the Bharat Jodo Yatra. Incidentally, Rahul also voted in Congress presidential elections from Ballari," said a Congress leader.

KPCC working president Eshwar Khandre said Rahul's yatra has brought hope for the people of the state. "Rahul is a down to earth person and his interaction with commoners during the yatra has made many go speechless," he said.

GS Mohammad Rafique, president, Ballari Block Congress Committee, said that the Bharat Jodo Yatra will help to revive the party at the grassroots level.

Siddu: Govt yet to give job to Lake Man's son

ENS @ Bengaluru

OPPOSITION leader Siddaramaiah on Tuesday criticised the BJP government for making false promises.

He alleged that 'Lake Man' Kamegowda from Dasanadoddi village in Malavalli taluk of Mandya district, who passed away on Monday, was told by then chief minister BS Yediyurappa that a government job would be provided to one of his two sons based on their education. "Two chief ministers of the same BJP government have come after that promise, but it is yet to be fulfilled," he said.

The works suggested by even chief ministers do not get done in this government. The government's performance has declined, probably because it has not received any commission, he mocked. "I demand disciplinary action against the Mandya deputy commissioner and others, to whom I have written six letters, but they have not submitted a report on the job to Kamegowda's son," he said.

Congress MLA Priyank Kharge said BJP listed over 600 promises in its manifesto, but has not fulfilled even 10 per cent of them.

"A few days ago, the CBI filed a B report in the Honnavar court on the death of Paresh Mesta," he said. The government had ordered a CBI inquiry after it was suspected that Mesta was murdered by an anti-BJP group. "Everyone knows BJP is a factory of lies. It is destroying the future of our youth and using them as pawns for its political vendetta," he added.

Instead of providing education and employment to youth, BJP is putting saffron shawls on their shoulders and giving them titles like 'dharma rakshak' and 'gau rakshak'. It will not hesitate to play with the lives of innocents and do politics over their bodies, he alleged.

Arun Singh must not speak lightly about Yatnal: Seer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

BJP national general secretary, in charge of Karnataka, Arun Singh should not speak lightly of Vijaypura MLA Basangouda Patil Yatnal, warned Kudalasangam Panchamsali Peeth seer Basavajaya Mrutyunjay Swami, here on Tuesday.

Reacting to Singh's recent statement that Yatnal is not a BJP leader, the seer said, "It has hurt me and the Panchamsali Lingayat community. A state-level convention of the community will be held on October 21 at Hukkeri. We will give a fitting reply to his statements there."

B J P state president Nalinkumar Kateel should tell Singh not to make insulting statements against Panchamsali community leaders, including Yatnal, he said.

"At the Hukkeri convention, we will decide on how to take forward the fight for our demands. We are now compelled to put pressure on the government by gathering over 25 Lakh people in front of the Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru," he warned.

Leaders, including Shashikant Patil, RK Patil, Dinesh Patil, Gundu Patil, Hanumant Kongali, BI Patil and Raju Magadum, were present.

The flooded solar park at Pavagada in Tumakuru district

Biggest solar park in India flooded

TUMAKURU: A part of the country's biggest solar park, spreading across 12,000 acres, in Pavagada is flooded following heavy rain over the last one week, exposing the 'unscientific' installation of the panels in low-lying areas and also on a tank bed in Tirumani. Now, a debate has broken out over whether this part of the park is sitting on the tank bed. "A part of the park is submerged as the tank is brimming. There is no outlet for excess water to flow out as some farmers in lower parts have blocked water from flowing into their fields as their land was not taken for the project," a resident said. When the panels were installed, the tank bed was dry. This is the first time in many decades that the dry Pavagada has received heavy rainfall. The loss to the panels is yet to be ascertained. Water has collected in nearly 30-40 acres and a video of a youngster and an employee of the company swimming in the waters has gone viral. It is the Tatikunte tank between Rayacherlu and Kyataganacharlu that is brimming. Tahsildar Varadaraj visited the spot and promised necessary action. ENS

SC takes up hearing on Krishna tribunal award

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

AFTER a long wait, the hearing on an interim application filed by Karnataka for the publication of the final award passed by the Second Krishna Water Disputes Tribunal (KWDT-II) was taken up by a Supreme Court bench on Tuesday. The hearing witnessed heated exchanges between the counsel for the riparian states of Karnataka and Maharashtra on one side and Telangana and Andhra Pradesh on the other.

Karnataka moved the application in September 2021 for the publication of the final award under Section 6(1) of the Inter State River Water Disputes Act, 1956. Though it was set to be heard in January this year, it was not as Justices DY Chandrachud and AS Bopanna recused themselves, saying they are from the riparian States. The application was subsequently not listed because of Covid-related delays, highly-placed sources said.

On Tuesday, senior advocate appearing for Telangana CS Vaidyanathan submitted that if the award is notified and water at 50 per cent dependability is distributed during the pendency of Special Leave Petitions (SLPs) challenging the validity of the award, Telangana, which is the downstream state, will suffer irreparably. Countering his argument, senior advocate for Karnataka Mohan Katarki submitted that the state has been allocated 174 tmcft of surplus water. Of this, if 65 tmcft is used immediately to irrigate 3.5 lakh hectares of lands under the Upper Krishna Project (UKP-III stage) in drought-prone areas, no prejudice will be caused to downstream states of Telangana and Andhra Pradesh.

Katarki contended that SLPs under Article 136 of the Constitution against the tribunal's award are permissible only on limited grounds of jurisdictional errors and therefore, the award allocating surplus water to Karnataka is likely to sustain the challenge mounted by Telangana and Andhra Pradesh.

Senior Advocate for Maharashtra Deepak Nargolkar joined Karnataka's plea and submitted that Telangana and Andhra Pradesh have been dragging the matter for a decade citing one or the other reason and therefore, publication of the award is necessary, the sources added.

The SC bench consisting of Justice Surya Kant and Justice JB Pardiwal posted the next hearing to December 6. The final award of KWDT-II was passed on November 29, 2013.

Two inter-state water meetings held

BENGALURU: Karnataka on Tuesday held two high-level meetings with their counterparts from other states on water sharing. The fourth consultation meeting with the states was held to arrive at a consensus on implementation of Godavari (Inchamplli)- Cauvery (Grand Anicut) link project. It was chaired by Bhopal Singh, Director General, National Water Development Authority, where officials from Karnataka, Telangana, AP, TN, Maharashtra, Odisha, Chhattisgarh, and MP participated. "The meeting was held to arrive at a consensus on imple-mentation of Godavari-Cauvery link Project that envisages diversion of 141 tmcft of Godavari surplus water to the Krishna, Cauvery and Pennar basins," an official said. The second meeting was on the construction of a balancing reservoir at Navale for silt removal in Tungabhadra dam.

K'taka ready to greet one more Great Indian Bustard, will take count to 7

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi

THE Ministry of Environment and Forest in New Delhi held a meeting on Tuesday to discuss the road map to save the critically endangered bird species of India, the Great Indian Bustard (GIB). The Karnataka government, however, has been working on the conservation of GIB for some time. There are only 100 left in the wild in the country and six are holding their ground in Karnataka.

The Great Indian Bustard are grassland bird species which coexisted with cheetahs, hyenas and wolves for long. But due to degradation of grassland habitat and hunting, the bird's numbers started to dip.

These birds have now been wiped out from 90% of their original distribution range.

In Karnataka, these birds were found in many locations, including Tumakuru, Chitradurga, Gadag and Haveri. But now they are restricted only to Ballari. There are six GIBs in Siruguppa region of Ballari district and the state forest department has increased the protection for these birds.

The Great Indian Bustard at Siruguppa in Ballari district | INDRAJIT GHORPADE

The forest team involved in the monitoring and protection of these GIBs in Karnataka have noticed that one of the GIB pairs has laid an egg and is protecting it. This is great news for bird lovers and the forest department is doing everything to ensure protection of the new guest.

Ironically, the last surviving GIBs in Karnataka are found in agricultural fields than in the protected area earmarked for their conversation in Siruguppa. The Ballari division of the forest department which has taken up the GIB conservation programme has requested to increase the forest area to aid in the bird's conservation.

"Everything that is required to protect the last surviving GIBs are being done by the department. We are creating awareness among the residents about the importance of conserving the birds. Three anti-poaching camps have been set up in Siruguppa. A team of 12 forest staff are keeping constant watch on the bird movements and also ensuring that predators such as dogs and other animals do not harm them.. The State Government has responded positively to increase the current protection area as the six birds that are surviving here have a range of 200 sq km," explained Sandip Suryawanshi, DCF, Ballari.

The forest department will also take up popularising its efforts to save the GIBs in Karnataka. While Rajasthan has the highest numbers of GIBs among the last 100, Gujarat, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and Karnataka share the remaining few. "The GIBs nest in the open, hence it becomes difficult to protect their eggs. The government must taken up artificial breeding of these birds before they go extinct from India," suggested a wildlife expert.

TN CM MK Stalin on Tuesday moved a resolution in the Assembly urging the Centre not to implement the recommendations made in the Report of the Parliamentary Committee on Official Language. The recommendations, submitted to the President on September 9, are against State languages and the interests of the people who speak them, the resolution said.

Pawan in 'war' mode, Naidu meets him

KALYAN THOLETI @ Vijayawada

SOON after Jana Sena chief Pawan Kalyan declared a 'total war' against the ruling YSRCP and predicted a change in the political landscape of the Andhra, former chief minister and TDP supremo N Chandrababu Naidu called on him at a hotel on Tuesday. This is their first meeting since 2014 when Pawan lent his support to the TDP.

After the meeting, both leaders agreed that 'all political parties should join hands to protect democracy in the State' —indicating that the much-anticipated realignment of political forces is taking shape. Addressing a joint press meet, Naidu said he had come straight to the hotel from the airport to extend solidarity with Pawan. "I have not informed anyone... It was painful to see the way Pawan was treated by the police in Vizag," he said and accused the Jagan Mohan Reddy government of making a mockery of democracy.

Naidu claimed he had not seen a party such as the YSRC in his career and recalled that when Pawan visited Vizag, one police officer made him wait on the road and streetlights were switched off along his route from the airport to the hotel.

"There is no democracy in the state for the last three-and-a-half years. They (YSRC) attacked the TDP office and booked cases against TDP leaders. Can there be anything more outrageous?" Naidu said.

The TDP chief stressed the need to ensure the existence of political parties in the State. "Does anyone have freedom to speak openly? If need be, we will discuss with other political parties too. We requested Pawan Kalyan to join hands in our fight to protect democracy," he said.

Unconstitutional actions won't be valid: CM to Guv

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'Puram

INDICATING that Governor Arif Mohammed Khan has overstepped his authority by threatening to expel ministers, Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Tuesday said that such actions that go against the Constitution will not be valid. Responding to reporters' queries on the Governor's warning, Pinarayi stressed that a Governor has to act "on the advice of the cabinet" and hoped that Khan will not act in a manner that would invite ridicule from the society. "Taking a stance that no person should criticise another person does not befit our society. Our Constitution gives freedom for criticism, self criticism and expression of opinion," the CM said, referring to the Governor taking strong exception to the criticism by ministers.

Pinarayi reminded that Dr BR Ambedkar has said that the discretionary powers of the Governor were very limited. "If anyone declares that he will act against the Constitution or the rule of law, it will not be valid," he underscored. The CM also questioned the Governor's order removing 15 members of the Kerala University Senate for not attending a meeting convened at his directions to choose a nominee to the panel to select a new vice-chancellor. He said the Governor, in his role as chancellor, should take steps to facilitate 'healthy growth' of universities. "His actions are are not legally valid," he said, referring to the ouster of Senate members.

Girl's parents involved: Police

SPEAKING to TNIE, SP Jayaprakash said, "This is a planned murder. The accused have confessed that they killed both the man and girl because of their relationship. The girl's family members admit that they opposed this relationship as the boy belonged to a lower caste."

"Parents of Vishwanath's had sent him to Kasaragod in Kerala in search of a better livelihood, where he started working as a daily wage labourer. Meanwhile, Rajeshwari told her parents that she wanted to marry Vishwanath."

The girl's family members laid a trap for Vishwanath by asking him to return home so that they could get married. When Vishwanath reached Naragund, the accused bundled him into a jeep while the girl was brought in another vehicle. Both were murdered in the vehicles, and their bodies were thrown into the Krishna River, the police said. "We are yet to retrieve the bodies from the river. A search operation is on to find the bodies," said the SP.

When Vishwanath's parents were unable to contact him for two days, they filed a missing complaint at Naragund Police Station on October 3. The girl's family had filed a complaint of kidnapping, at Bagalkot Rural Police Station on October 7. Police said Rajeshwari's parents are involved in killing their own daughter and also in eliminating Vishwanath on September 30.

B'luru to host 2-day meet on crop pests

ENS @ Bengaluru

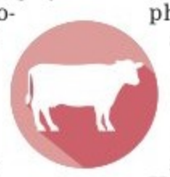
AS many as 150 agriculture scientists from across the country will participate in the 31st annual review meeting of the All India Coordinated Research Project on Biological Control of Crop Pests (AICRP) at GKVK, University of Agriculture Sciences (UAS). The Biological Control of Crop Pests project is being operated at ICAR - National Bureau of Agricultural Insect Resources (NBAIR), Bengaluru. The meeting on October 20-21 will deliberate on the use of biocontrol agents to reduce the use of chemical pesticides, said Dr G Sivakumar, principal scientist (microbiology) & chairman, AICRP Biocontrol Project Coordinator Cell, ICAR- NBAIR, Bengaluru.

"Field demonstrations through AICRP centres have created awareness among farmers regarding usefulness of biological control in IPM modules. Protocols are being developed for mass multiplication of parasitoids, predators and pathogens," said Sivakumar.

GRAZING ANIMALS KEY TO SOIL'S CARBON STABILITY: STUDY

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

LARGE mammalian herbivores play a crucial role in stabilising soil carbon in the grazing ecosystem across the globe, including in the Himalayas, shows a study undertaken by researchers from Centre for Ecological Sciences and Divecha Centre for Climate Change, IISc. An experimental removal of grazing by herbivores from such ecosystems led to fluctuations in the soil carbon level, adversely affecting the global carbon cycle, researchers found.



Dead organic matter from plants and animals remain in the social for long before microbes break them down, and release carbon into the atmosphere as carbon dioxide, said Sumanta Bagchi, Associate Prof at CES.

The 16-year-old study began with the assessment of the impact of grazing animals on the Himalayan ecosystems during his PhD back in 2005.

With support from the Himachal Pradesh government, local authorities, and the people of the Kibber village in Spiti region, where the study was undertaken, soil samples collected and plots created to assess chemical composition. The levels of carbon and nitrogen were also assessed in each plot. A comparative study revealed that carbon was found to fluctuate 30-40 per cent more in the fenced plots where animals were absent, compared to the grazed plots where it remained stable each year.

A key factor underlying these fluctuations was nitrogen. Depending on the soil conditions, nitrogen can either stabilise or destabilise the carbon pool.

K'taka robust but faces many challenges, say experts

Bengaluru: 'Karnataka: A $1 trillion GDP Vision' by Mohandas Pai, chairman, 3one4 Capital, and research fellow Nisha Holla, terms the state "robust" and ranks it third in the country in SDGs. The book, released by CM Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday, also identifies many challenges, especially low agricultural incomes and the rural economy, and the need to shift the workforce to other sectors. "An aging state with declining fertility needs to focus on building a high-productivity workforce," it pointed out. The challenges to be addressed include wide disparity between North and South Karnataka, with the poorest 10 districts in the North, inadequate spending on the state's growth drivers — industry and services sectors, and urban sector. Per capita development expenditure on agriculture and rural sector is nearly double that of other sectors — Rs 29,772 and Rs 18,371 respectively — in FY22. ENS

U-shaped concrete ditches a success in Japan

NAGARAJ Devadiga said that U-shaped concrete ditches have been successfully built in Japan to save the turtles in Kyoto and Nara. "In April 2015, the West Japan Railways Department, in collaboration with Suma Acqualife, created U-shaped concrete ditches under railway tracks enabling turtles and other creatures to crawl to their destination on the other side of the track without getting injured or run over by trains. Previously, the turtles would crawl under the tracks and get crushed," he said in the letter.

Devadiga said the ditches should be constructed at every 500m along the 139 km railway track between Kabaka Puttur and Hassan. Taking note of the letter, MoEFCC has written to the Wildlife Division of the Ministry to come up with a proposal and study its effectiveness. Sources in the South Western Railway, however, said they are yet to receive any guidelines from MoEFCC.

TACKLING POVERTY IS ON COURSE BUT DAUNTING CHALLENGES REMAIN

It is good to know that we may be winning the war against poverty, but there is no room for complacency. In its latest report, the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) has said that in the last 15 years, 415 million people in India were pulled out of poverty. In the same breath, the agency warned that with nearly 230 million below the poverty line, India continues to have the largest number of poor in the world. Between 2005 and 2015, when Congress-led UPA was in power, 275 million escaped poverty, while between 2016 to 2021, when the BJP was in power, 140 million rose out of poverty. Congress' P Chidambaran claimed his government performed better on this front, but the UN agency said poverty declined faster at 11.9% in the latter period.

The Global Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI) is important as it does not measure poverty merely as an 'income' factor but applies three parameters—health, education and standard of living. The good news is this more all-round assessment showed India's multidimensional poverty value had fallen from 0.283 in 2005 to a low of 0.069 in 2019–21. In percentage terms, poverty declined from 55.1% to 27.7% over the 15 years. The agency recognised that policy action and schemes—in education, nutrition, water, sanitation, and employment—contributed to these results.

However, before we begin clapping, we must realise much of this data was collected before the Covid-19 pandemic had demolished past gains. World Bank estimates say that of 71 million people who sank into poverty worldwide in 2020, as many as 56 million Indians had plunged into the misery tally. Another big concern is the bulk of the poor—21.2% are from rural areas, with urban India accounting for just 5.5%. The priority for the government is clear. While we debate what is 'poverty', the multi-faceted challenges of human deprivation need to be tackled on a war footing.

The recent Global Hunger Index listed India at 107 out of 121 countries—a fall of seven notches since last year. Though the government rejected these reports on methodology, clearly, we have a problem. Government spending on direct transfers and subsidies at the bottom of the pyramid and generation of rural jobs has worked well in the past. More of the same is the cry of the hour.

SLIDE IN IT JOB MARKET, FRESHERS IN PERIL

A sudden slump in the once-booming job market in India's information technology (IT) sector has painted a gloomy picture for fresh engineering graduates. Thousands of them, who had received job offers during their campus interviews, are now facing an unpleasant prospect of being unemployed as companies are either annulling the offers or going slow in recruiting them. Almost all domestic IT giants have been accused of rejecting their offers or indefinitely delaying the date of joining, exactly like how they did soon after the first lockdown in the pandemic. There was chaos in the second half of 2020 when thousands of freshers had to wait indefinitely to land a job that was promised to them during campus recruitments months ahead of the pandemic.

The return of a similar situation in less than two years has indeed rattled the student community. Engineering graduates, who have a hefty educational loan on their shoulders, find the situation pretty alarming. This time, the reasons are obviously different. The ever-growing inflation in the domestic as well as foreign markets, a conscious decision by clients to spend less ahead of a potential economic slowdown, and an unexpected drop in new contracts have all forced companies to hold up the recruitment process. While some industry experts believe the winter may be a little longer, others like Salil Parekh, chief executive officer of Infosys, are quick to dismiss it as a minor concern. According to a report by Xpheno, a leading staffing firm, September has thrown up the lowest active jobs in 17 months. It also marked the sharpest year-on-year drop. On the flip side, start-ups in the country raked in barely $2.7 billion in funding across 205 deals in the third quarter of 2022, making it the lowest in nearly two years amid the global funding slowdown. The fund crunch at several IT unicorns has undeniably decelerated job prospects for freshers.

In India, there exists no formal framework that offers guidance and counselling to freshers entering the job market. The fact is that many students were attracted to take up computer science and IT-related courses because of their better employment options and high starting salaries. This has also prompted several colleges to increase the student intake into these courses. The frequent contraction in the job market is definitely not good news for them as well as the country that counts software service exports as a major revenue earner.

QUICK TAKE

PERSONAL VERSUS COMMON LAWS

The Supreme Court will examine the soundness of a Punjab and Haryana high court ruling allowing a minor Muslim girl reaching puberty to marry under Muslim personal law. A challenge said under Indian laws, girls' marriageable age is 18, child marriage is banned, and sexual intercourse with a minor girl after marriage is still a crime. It's difficult to invalidate such a marriage without traumatising the girl. And what about her future upkeep? The high court appears to have been hasty in privileging personal law over common civil laws. It can trigger a debate over the contentious uniform civil code.

Considering the unique features of Indian arts, we must not just sustain these art traditions but build on them

REFORMING ARTS, CRAFTS AND CULTURE EDUCATION

VINAY SAHASRABUDDHE

President, ICCR and senior BJP leader

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Music maestros, actors, directors, painters and sculptors are persons who have contributed greatly in shaping the global identity of India. They have immensely added to India's soft power. This year, Amitabh Bachchan turned 80. While last year was the centenary year of Subramania Bharati, two years ago, we celebrated the centenary of Satyajit Ray. From Raja Ravi Varma to V D Paluskar and from Rabindranath Tagore to Lata Mangeshkar, many from the world of arts and culture have made India, 'India'. Traditionally, fine arts, performing arts, and visual arts have played a significant role in setting agendas and shaping narratives. More importantly, with an increasingly frightening spectre of the flattening of the world, it is these disciplines of knowledge that help any society retain its cultural identity. In the context of India, it is an undeniable fact that a plethora of rich and colourful art traditions have made this great nation stand apart from the rest.

But arts and culture cannot be looked at like holy cows. Eulogising our rich talent and traditions, worshipping our culture-heroes and heroines, and talking about lofty ideals of our vision is important, but not enough. There is an urgent need to evaluate the current state of arts and culture education in India and bring in wide-ranging reforms. Ideally, it should start with nomenclature. Understandably, many people often confuse art education with BA and MA. While arts faculties in many universities cover everything under the sun, including fine arts, performing arts and visual arts, most of the traditional subjects are about humanities. A clear distinction between arts and humanities could be a good starting point. It would be a good idea if the traditional BA becomes Bachelor of Humanities, with whatever the specialisation may be, and BA/MA remains reserved for graduation/post-graduation in fine arts, performing arts and visual arts. All these disciplines are distinguished areas of creativity and hence recognising their importance needs reforms in nomenclature.

While the importance of STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) cannot be undermined, it is the education of different arts that plays a major role in creative thinking. Most of the prime ministers—including PM Narendra Modi—were students of knowledge disciplines, other than STEM. The same is true with most world leaders.

First and foremost, let's understand that our philosophy of human life manifests through most of our art traditions, including folk arts. All our major dance traditions and our music—both vocal and instrumental—have traditionally been seen as dedicated to the worship of gods and goddesses. Unlike many Western dance traditions and music abroad, our performing arts are not just entertainment events. They essentially have a spiritual foundation.

Considering many such unique features of Indian arts, it is required that we work towards not just sustaining these art traditions but building on them. The National Education Policy (NEP 2020) provides enough scope for this. Recently, a dedicated report of the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Education (2021–22) has very elaborately discussed issues in arts education and given some important recommendations. One of the recommendations states, "At the current stage of evolving a National/State Curriculum Framework, a mechanism be created to impart basic knowledge of Indian Performing arts like dance, music, instrumental music etc. from an early age, as this will help children appreciate and understand the arts better and will also motivate them to take it up as a vocation." The report adds that "this would also help in early identification and honing" of budding talents.

It is also important that for imparting a sound knowledge of Indian arts, the content has to be free from colonial approaches. While it is a fact that the inspiration for a work of art by Hebbar or Vasudeo Kamath is no different from that of Warli or Madhubani artists, the colonial approach resulted in needlessly creating two distinct classes of art and craft. Inexplicably, art is considered superior to craft and hence this art and craft division needs to be done away with.

While the NEP 2020 envisions education with a multi-disciplinary approach, the need for qualified arts teachers cannot be ignored. They are in acute short supply because art and craft education has traditionally been denied equality in dignity, wages and job security. As pointed out in the Parliamentary Committee report, appointing arts teachers on an ad hoc basis sends a wrong signal. In a situation like this, children cannot look at it as an attractive career option. The Committee has further recommended that arts education "should be included in the curriculum of teacher training institutions across the country".

Arts education is a field that merits special attention. Thankfully, the Parliamentary Committee has reviewed a whole gamut of issues and given structured recommendations. One of them includes opening many regional centres of the Film and Television Institute of India (FTII) and also exploring the possibility of including FTII's Skilling India in Film and Television (SKIFT) programme in various disciplines of filmmaking at the school level.

There is an urgent need to teach appreciation of art as well. What used to happen naturally in families, today needs a formal learning mechanism. Appreciation of an art film, classical music or an abstract painting needs training and for that too, some academic courses are necessary. After all, for good art to flourish, one needs good patrons too.

Remarkably, the Parliamentary Committee has also mooted the idea of "establishing a Central University like Rashtriya Kala Vishwa Vidyalaya (National University of Arts) through an Act of Parliament, with regional centres at prominent art/cultural locations, to become a benchmark institution in all areas of Arts can be explored forthwith". It would be in the fitness of things to make it a University of Arts, Crafts and Culture, as all three are independent yet inseparable. Such an apex-level national institution can add to the dignity of artisans and their art/craft besides recognising domestically acquired craft skills through some evaluation mechanism.

Should this happen, it would be a monumental contribution to our national mission of building great institutions. And needless to say, to make it happen, there cannot be a better occasion than the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav!

LOGISTICS POLICY, A GAME-CHANGER

CHANDRAJIT BANERJEE

Director General, Confederation of Indian Industry

In addition to improving ease of living and doing business, the newly launched National Logistics Policy, along with other pillars of PM Gati Shakti, is set to ring in ease of moving in the country, ensuring speedier and seamless movement of cargo and people across modes of transport. Executed efficiently, it will bring a paradigm shift in multimodal transport and position India as a global trendsetter in the digital and paperless logistics ecosystem.

The National Logistics Policy (NLP) 2022 is a well-timed, game-changing initiative and a comprehensive effort to enhance the efficiency of the logistics ecosystem. It will spur the economy's competitiveness through improved connectivity and smooth movement of goods in both domestic and international markets. A giant step towards unlocking India's growth potential and creating jobs, the NLP will complement the PM Gati Shakti National Master Plan launched last year for integrated infrastructure development.

The vision of the NLP 2022 is to develop a technologically enabled, integrated, cost-efficient, resilient, sustainable and trusted logistics ecosystem for accelerated and inclusive growth. The NLP also has the potential to make logistics and supply chain management a sought after career for India's youth.

Logistics and supply chains have never been part of our national policy discourse, even though the last few years underscored their importance when economies worldwide underwent nationwide lockdowns to fight Covid-19. The prime minister must be congratulated for bringing logistics and supply chain management to the forefront of policy discussions. The estimated cost of national logistics is 13–14% of GDP—which is higher than that of the US, Europe, and China. The NLP aims to reduce this cost to less than 10%, comparable to global benchmarks, and improve the country's logistics performance index ranking and global positioning by 2030.

The policy is the end product of a series of steps taken after forming the Logistics Division under the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. Sagarmala and Bharatmala and dedicated freight corridors have improved logistics connectivity for systematic infrastructure development. The efficiency of the logistics sector has also significantly increased with initiatives like the paperless EXIM trade process through eSanchit, faceless assessment for customs, provisions for e-way bills, etc.

The NLP complements such initiatives by laying down an overarching interdisciplinary, cross-sectoral, multi-jurisdictional and comprehensive policy framework for the logistics sector.

India is a federal country, and much of the public goods and services delivery in critical areas is done by state governments. Therefore, the role of states in joining this journey is indispensable, especially for first and last-mile connectivity and delivery. It bodes well for a successful rollout of the NLP that all states and UTs have been onboarded, with 14 states already having developed their respective state logistics policies on the lines of the NLP. It is in the draft stage for another 13 states.

PTI

> The policy will spur the economy's competitiveness through improved connectivity and smooth movement of goods in domestic and international markets

By 2047, it is estimated that India's GDP, with real growth of 5%, will touch $25 trillion. At the same time, the potential logistics market size is expected to be $1.5–2 trillion, growing at 7.5–8% CAGR, as the logistics market expands 1.5 times the GDP. The current size of the Indian logistics sector is estimated to be $250 billion. This potential six- to eight-fold increase in the size of the logistics sector in the next 25 years would make it a key enabler of the Indian manufacturing industry in global value chains led by Indian logistics champion organisations and professionals.

The Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) has worked on a multi-stage and multi-step 25-year vision for India's logistics sector. Ten key enablers have been identified to help achieve targets set for Indian logistics. These are: Standardisation in logistics, commodity-wise focus, outsourcing by user industry, digitalisation of documentation and processes, infrastructure integration and upgrade, globally benchmarked institutional infrastructure for skill development, support for logistics start-ups, focus on sustainability goals, branding, and investments in research and development.

Four potential impediments have also been identified in achieving the targets: first-mile and last-mile connectivity, digital interface standards for domestic trade but especially cross-border trade, land availability for establishing logistics infrastructure in strategic locations, and the high capital cost for establishing logistics projects. These can be addressed through PM Gati Shakti and the NLP.

It is also suggested that the government establish a logistics committee to monitor the implementation of policies and processes at three levels—strategies, implementation, and developmental initiatives. This could be done by involving both users and service providers with a clear mandate on outcomes and timelines.

The share of manufacturing in India's GDP has stagnated at 17–18% for the last decade. It is well known that manufacturing has the greatest potential to create steady, high-value employment opportunities for India's young population. The NLP, focusing on achieving higher logistics efficiency, would facilitate an increase in manufacturing output and enhance the share in global trade.

Increased specialisation of individuals and businesses is the hallmark of any modern economy, India included. With a higher degree of specialisation comes incentives to outsource more, which means linkages and dependency spread over an increased number of businesses. This also means that the importance of logistics and supply chain management is that much higher.

In such a complex world, a national logistics portal which collates and updates information in real-time on goods, vehicle flow and availability of capacity and logistics assets across the transportation network is needed. It will be a great addition in making available the necessary information for businesses to make more informed trade and investment decisions. This will solve the problem of information asymmetry and help foster a level playing field for businesses. The growth opportunities arising from the NLP will truly catapult India forward on its developmental journey.

ASEAN's misses

I thank columnist V Suryanarayan for his perceptive column, The myth and reality of ASEAN unity (Oct 18). ASEAN unity was never strong and has further deteriorated due to the divisive role played by China. With issues like the South China Sea, BRI, Myanmar, Rohingyas and the recent Taiwan debacle, ASEAN has become divided. Only if the countries in it can collectively achieve workable solutions, will it be able to regain its status as a meaningful grouping.

Defection or split

Apropos of To overcome crisis, Shiv Sena needs to first look within (Oct 18). The columnist's "attempt to look at some key factors that led to the unprecedented defection in the Shiv Sena" is not true for two reasons. One, it is not a defection but is a split or separation, since Shinde hasn't formed a new party. Secondly, there is no mention of how MVA is a betrayal of the people's mandate. The writer cannot claim that the Uddhav Sena is the real Sena. People must decide!

Apropos of CBI grills Sisodia for over 9 hours (Oct 18). CBI is leaving no stone unturned in its move to build a solid case against him. But Sisodia is also a tough nut to crack. With the Gujarat elections around the corner and AAP campaigning, the BJP will do all it takes to remove Sisodia from the campaign scene.

Eliminate terror safe havens, PM tells Interpol meet

Says safe and secure world is a shared responsibility of the global community

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday appealed to the international community to "eliminate safe havens" of terrorists, criminals and the corrupt, stating that a safe and secure world is a shared responsibility of the global community. Speaking at the inaugural session of the 90th General Assembly of Interpol, the Prime Minister said that when the "forces of good cooperate, the forces of crime cannot operate."

The PM warned the global community against the harmful globalised threats that the world faces — terrorism, corruption, drug trafficking, poaching and organised crime. "The pace of change of these dangers is faster than earlier. When threats are global, the response cannot be just local. It is high time that the world comes together to defeat these threats."

The 90th General Assembly of Interpol has drawn a gathering of 195 member countries. It included a delegation from Pakistan led by its Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) Director General Mohsin Butt. Modi said India has been combating transnational terrorism for several decades.

"Long before the world woke up to it, we knew the price of safety and security. Thousands of our people made the ultimate sacrifice in this fight," he added. Stating that there can be no safe havens for the corrupt, terrorists, drug cartels, poaching gangs or organised crime, the Prime Minister said, "Such crimes against people in one place are crimes against everyone, crimes against humanity. Further, these not only harm our present but also impact our future generations."

Police and law enforcement agencies need to devise procedures and protocols to increase cooperation, he said, adding Interpol can help by speeding up Red Corner Notices for fugitive offenders. The Prime minister also released a commemorative postage stamp and a ₹100 coin to mark the 90th General Assembly. He was welcomed at the venue by Home Minister Amit Shah, Interpol President Ahmed Naser Al Raisi and Secretary General Jurgen Stock.

Modi said, "Establishment of early detection and warning systems, protecting transportation services, security for communication infrastructure, security for critical infrastructure, technical and technological assistance, intelligence exchange, many of these things need to be taken to a new level," he said.

India joins global anti-crime network, can access database

AMIT MUKHERJEE @New Delhi

INDIA is now a part of a special international anti-crime network which allows Indian agencies instant access to a worldwide database of criminals with their complete digital that would aid in tackling transnational crimes and tracking absconding criminals.

India recently became a part of this network that would allow India's premier investigating agency the CBI access to Interpol's 19 global databases containing 126 million records including DNA profiles and facial recognition images that would be extremely crucial to address crime threats, as well as locate and arrest the criminals behind them, said Jürgen Stock, Interpol Secretary General said who is here in New Delhi to attend the 90th Interpol General Assembly in New Delhi.

In view of this India's premier investigating agency the CBI would be able to work more closely with Interpol to deal with the increasingly high instances of cybercrime, especially in the fields of financial frauds, child pornography and drug trafficking, said Praveen Sinha, Special Director, CBI.

"India got connected to this specialized database and has already seen significant results from being part of this global network," said Stock adding, "Our databases are checked more than 20 million times each day — which equates to around 250 searches per second."

Stock said "We know that cybercrime and online child abuse are significantly under reported, often because victims are ashamed or in cases of fraud, embarrassed, which means that the figures we see are just the tip of the iceberg." He added that is why there are a number of resolutions at this General Assembly encouraging greater action by member countries to use Interpol resources in combating these crimes.

India, which became of the special network this year, will be able to use Interpol's International Child Sexual Exploitation database that helps investigators around the world identify an average of seven child abuse victims — every single day, Stock said.

India is already benefiting being a part of this specialized database. Supported by the information database in a recent Operation Lionfish targeting drug trafficking, Indian authorities made the largest single seizure of heroin during the operation intercepting 75kg of the drug, said Sinha.

Pandemic blues for workers

39 per cent of all job card-holding households interested in working under the MNREGA scheme did not get a single day of work in the Covid pandemic year 2020-21, reveals a survey

DEMANDS AND NEEDS

Unmet demand (difference between the number of days desired and the number of days of work received) across all states surveyed was 64 days

Most frequently mentioned reason for not getting as much work as needed, across all blocks, was the lack of adequate work being sanctioned or opened

BACKBONE OF RURAL ECONOMY

Despite shortcomings, MGNREGA protected the most vulnerable households from significant loss of income.

20 to 80 per cent of the income loss in every block was compensated by the scheme during pandemic

FUND SHORTFALL

3 times less allocation of fund for the scheme found in all states surveyed

The survey team has also recommended for increasing wage to at least state minimum wages or ₹375 per day as recommended by the Anoop Satpathy Committee.

SURVEYED AREAS

Phulparas (Madhubani) and Chhatapur blocks (Supaul) in Bihar, Bidar (Bidar) and Devadurga (Raichur) in Karnataka, Khalwa (Khandwa) and Ghatigaon (Gwalior) in Madhya Pradesh, and Wardha and Surgana (Nashik) in Maharashtra.

Our study shows how much the workers value the need and utility of MGNREGA. More than eight out of 10 households recommended that MGNREGA should provide 100 days of employment per person per year.

Ashwini Kulkarni, Member of MGREGA Consortium

Covid-19: '39% didn't find even 1-day work under MGNREGA'

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

ABOUT 39% of all job card-holding households registered under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act 2005 were not provided even a single day of work during the Covid-hit 2020-21 period in India's four states.

These states include Bihar (then ruled by NDA) and Karnataka (BJP-ruled now). In fact, the 39% of job-card holding households were demanding 77 days of work on average but they did not get work even of a single day. A survey conducted on the impact of 'Covid-19 pandemic' on the MGNREGA in various blocks of country's four states by Azim Premji University in partnership with the National Consortium of Civil Organisations and Collaborative Research and Dissemination (CORD), has made such startling revelaions in its report.

The study has also found that despite all these shortcomings, the MGNREGA made a marked difference during the pandemic, protecting the most vulnerable households from significant loss of income as they were able to find some work.

Parl can't be directed to frame UCC: Govt to SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

QUESTIONING the maintainability and seeking dismissal of the PIL's for Uniform Civil Code in the country with regards to divorce, guardianship, succession & inheritance, maintenance & age of marriage, the Union Law Ministry has submitted before the Supreme Court that court cannot direct Parliament to frame or enact any law.

"It is a settled position of law as has been held in the catena of judgments by this court under our constitutional scheme, Parliament exercises sovereign power to enact laws and no outside power or authority can issue a direction to enact a particular piece of legislation. It is respectfully submitted that a writ of mandamus cannot be issued to the legislature to enact a particular legislation," the affidavit states.

It has further been added in the affidavit that this is a matter of policy for the elected representatives of the people to decide and no direction in this regard can be issued by the Court. It is for the legislature to enact or not to enact a piece of legislation.

Throwing light on the purpose behind Article 44 of the Constitution of India which deals with Uniform Civil Code, the Law Ministry has further submitted that the purpose behind it is to strengthen the object of "Secular Democratic Republic" as enshrined in the Preamble of the Constitution.

"This provision is provided to effect integration of India by bringing communities on the common platform on matters which are at present governed by diverse personal laws. This Article is based on the concept that in matters of inheritance, right to property, maintenance and succession, there will be a common law.

Sangh mulls role of women in its key ranks at national executive

NAMITA BAJPAI @New Delhi

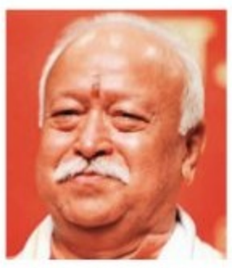
TOP leadership of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh, including its chief Mohan Bhagwat, has stressed increasing the role of women in the organisation's decision-making process. Some reports say that women may soon be accommodated in key positions of the organisation.

Huddled in Prayagraj for its four-day meet, the RSS national executive underway, RSS functionaries have explored possibilities of engancing role of women workers in all the affiliated organisations of the Sangh Pariwar.

According to sources privy to the discussions, the Sangh leadership agreed to increase the participation of women in the regular meetings of Sangh Pariwar so that they could play more prominent role in works related to social harmony which the organisation intended to take up at rural level. Besides Bhagwat, RSS general secretary Dattatreya Hosabale and a host of other top functionaries are attending the four-day meeting being held at Vatsalya Institute campus, Gauhania.

According to an RSS office-bearer, acknowledging the fact that women have been playing an active in all organisations, the Sangh leadership has decided to consolidate their role further in Sangh's ranks. The discussions revolved around how to ensure participation of women in various social as well as ideological works being undertaken by the organisation across the country.

The leaders, according to sources, has also resolved to make dedicated efforts to mobilise girl students and rope them in for carrying out various Sangh's activities. Moreover, there was also a discussion on organising awareness programmes for women associated with anganwadis and self-help groups across the country.



Efforts to rope in girl students

The leaders, according to sources, has also resolved to make dedicated efforts to mobilise girl students and rope them in for carrying out various Sangh's activities. Moreover, there was also a discussion on organising awareness programmes for women associated with anganwadis and self-help groups

During his traditional Vijaya Dashmi speech on October 5, RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat had set the tone for enhanced role of women by laying stress on the importance of their enlightenment, empowerment and equal participation in all activities of society, including the decision-making process.

On the other, the national executive took the opportunity to express its concern over the killings of Hindus, including Kashmiri Pundits, in Jammu and Kashmir and other parts of the country. The national executive body proposed to frame a policy in order to create an ambience where no particular community is targeted in the country.

NEW THREAT

As new Omicron variants emerge, Centre ramps up surveillance

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

AFTER new Omicron sub-variants were detected in India, triggering off alarm bells ahead of the festival, the Union Health Minister Dr Mansukh Mandaviya on Tuesday chaired a high-level meeting to review the situation and directed officials to focus on the practical implementation of surveillance strategy and strengthening genome sequencing for early detection of new variants.

Maharashtra, which had earlier detected Omicron sub-variant BQ.1, on Tuesday confirmed 71 cases of XBB – a combination of two omicron sub-lineages BJ.1 and BA.2.75 and has led to a surge in Covid cases in Singapore - has been detected in India. Gujarat also reported BF.7 Omicron sub-variant, which had caused a rise in Covid-19 cases in the US, UK, and many European countries.

Mandaviya discussed the emergence of new Omicron variants, due to which many countries are witnessing a steep rise in cases, and stressed the need for monitoring the points of entries.

Chairing the meeting with public health experts and officials, he also discussed the global scenario, including in the US, UK and many European countries, which are witnessing a surge in Covid cases due to the new emerging Omicron sub-variants, which are said to be immune escape variants and have higher transmissibility.

Since the new variants have been detected in Maharashtra, Covid-19 cases in the state rose by 17.17% on October 10-16 compared to October 3 and 9.

NEET-PG CUT-OFF DOWN BY 25 PERCENTILE

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

IN a move that will bring major relief to students seeking admissions to postgraduate courses, the Centre has approved the reduction of cut-off marks for NEET-PG 2022 aspirants by 25 percentile across all categories. The decision would help fill in 8,000-10,000 vacant seats of specialist doctors.

The ministry of health decided to reduce the percentile, keeping in mind the vacant seats in the postgraduate counselling held for the last academic session. The decision was announced after the National Medical Commission approved it. On October 14, the NMC recommended reducing the qualifying percentile for post-graduate courses for 2022.

The revised qualifying percentile/cutoff for general category candidates would be 25 percentile, for people with disabilities in the general category (PWD-general) would be 20 percentile, and 15 percentile for both the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe/Other Backward Caste and people with disabilities in the SC/ST/OBC category.

This year's National Eligibility cum Entrance Test for Postgraduate (NEET-PG) exam was held on May 21, and results were declared on June 1.

Dr Rohan Krishnan, national president of FAIMA Doctors Association, welcomed the move. "There were a lot of seats that were vacant in the NEET-PG examinations. Usually, the cut-off is reduced every year as per the vacant seats."

"We had requested officials concerned from the very beginning that the process should not be delayed. We worked proactively. This will help fill the seats. I congratulate the students who will now be eligible to participate in the admission process," Krishnan said.

PRADHAN TO KICKSTART CONSULTATION ON NATIONAL EDUCATION CREDIT FRAMEWORK

NEW DELHI: Union Education and Skill Development Minister Dharmendra Pradhan will start the process of public consultation on the National Credit Framework on Wednesday. In this regard, the education minister chaired a high-level meeting with the committee preparing the National Credit Framework for school education, higher education and skilling on Tuesday. The government had approved the constitution of a high-level committee to develop a National Credit Accumulation and Transfer Framework for both vocational and general education. It would enable the integration of academic and vocational domains or components of learning and ensure flexibility and mobility between the two, the ministry said. ENS

Punjab farmers take their fight to Mann's house

Demand compensation for damaged crops, quashing of mining law

HARPREET BAJWA @ chandigarh

HUNDREDS of farmers have gathered near Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann's residence in Sangrur demanding compensation for their damaged crops and for the cattle that died due to lumpy skin disease, quashing of mining law and enhancement in the land acquisition relief. As they plan a major protest on Thursday, they reel out the promises that Delhi CM and the ruling AAP's national convenor Arwind Kejriwal has been making to the people of poll-bound Gujarat.

"We have given the Minimum Support Price (MSP) to farmers on five crops in Punjab, besides compensation for the crop damage. We'll also ensure adequate electricity supply to the farmers," says an angry Punjab villager quoting Kejriwal as saying in Gujarat. "We have none of all this at all," he said.

The protesting farmers led by the Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) Ekta-Ugrahan – the largest farmer union of the state – have taken turns to sit on a dharna on the Patiala-Bathinda highway and have parked their modified tractor-trolleys along the 3-km stretch of the highway. Only a part of the road is left for traffic movement. These trolleys are converted into makeshift homes.

The farmers are carrying the ration, vegetables, lentils, utensils, gas cylinders and other items and have set up makeshift kitchens. A 400-metre stretch of the road has been completely blocked where a platform has been set up.

While farmers living in nearby villages join the protest daily in the morning and return in the evening, those coming from far-off places stay inside the makeshift camps and return after a week.

BKU (Ekta Ugrahan) chief Joginder Singh Ugrahan said the financial condition of farmers is worsening as successive governments at the Centre and state have failed to help them.

"The state government should release compensation for the damaged crops and for the cattle that died due to lumpy skin disease. The government should also shutter own a liquor factory at Mansurwal village near Zira for causing pollution and take action to prevent pollution of various canals by industrialists of Ludhiana," said Ugrahan.

The other demands include the cancellation of cases against farmers for burning the crop residue and Rs 200 per quintal for the management of stubble without burning it. "We also demand scrapping of the mining law and enhancement in land acquisition relief," says Sukhdev Singh Kokri Kalan, another BKU (Ugrahan) leader.

Purohit asks Punjab CM to remove agri varsity VC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chandigarh

TERMING the appointment of Satbir Singh Gosal as Vice-Chancellor of Punjab Agriculture University, Ludhiana, "totally illegal," Governor Banwarilal Purohit on Tuesday asked CM Bhagwant Mann to remove Gosal.

This is the latest in a series of flashpoints between Purohit and the AAP government.

Purohit had returned the file of Dr Gurpreet Singh Wander, who was appointed Vice Chancellor of Baba Farid University of Health Sciences (BFUHS), Faridkot, saying the proper procedure was not followed.

He also took exception to CM Mann's absence from the reception hosted in honour of President Droupadi Murmu at Raj Bhawan. Before that, they had a showdown on the special assembly session called by the ruling AAP to table the confidence motion.

Sources said the Governor who is also the Chancellor of the PAU, said Gosal was appointed by the state government without following UGC norms and the approval of the Chancellor.

NCP chief, Uddhav & Aaditya may join Bharat Jodo Yatra

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

LEADERS belonging to the former ruling alliance Maha Vikas Aghadi will likely come together for Congress' Bharat Jodo Yatra in the party's stronghold Nanded on November 7. The likely participants include NCP chief Sharad Pawar and Shiv Sena faction leader Uddhav Thackeray and his son Aaditya.

A Congress team, including Maharashtra Congress incharge HK Patil, Congress legislature party leader Balasaheb Thorat and former CM Ashok Chavan, met Uddhav Thackeray at Matoshree on Monday and later Pawar at his residence, inviting him to join the Bharat Jodo Yatra. A senior Congress leader said Uddhav and his son had agreed to take part in Rahul Gandhi- initiated Yatra. "Pawar's response too was positive. We have decided to welcome the yatra at the state border or join it in Nanded, the home town of Ashok Chavan," said the Congress leader.

The Congress has planned a big rally on November 8 in Nande. "The Congress has extended support to Uddhav's faction candidate Rutuja Latke in the Andheri East by-election. They should also reciprocate by participating in the yatra," a senior Congress leader said. The Maharashtra leg of the yatra will start on Nov 7 at Deglur in Nanded and conclude on Nov 20 in Buldhana district. Rahul Gandhi and his team will walk around 283 km and will stay for almost a fortnight. The party has planned two mega rallies at Nanded and Shegav in Buldhana.

The Congress leader said Pawar has not yet confirmed his attendance for the Yatra. "But he is keen to support Rahul Gandhi for the larger cause. If he does not attend, then NCP Lok Sabha MP Supriya Sule and NCP state unit president Jayant Patil will participate," said an NCP leader. Maharashtra Congress chief Nana Patole said the party has invited all who believe in secularism and want to protect the Constitution.

Breath-based cancer detector by IIT

Realising the importance of early detection of cancer for effective treatment, a team of professors from the IIT Roorkee, have developed a simple, easy-to-use breath based cancer detector, Which works on the principles of colorimetry. This device is capable of detecting the presence of breast, lung and oral cancers. The R&D team is led by professors Indranil Lahiri, Partha Roy and Debarupa Lahiri. More importantly, IIT Roorkee has signed a technology transfer deal with Tata Steel. "It is a quick, easy, pocket-friendly breast-lung-mouth cancer screening device and a person just needs to fly in this device," said Indranil Lahiri, who is associate professor.

Ex-armyman threatens to return Arjuna award

Arjuna awardee and former Army Captain Surendra Singh Kanwasi has threatened to return his award and has also approached the court following a land dispute. The ex-officer, who won a bronze medal for rowing at the 2000 Asian Games, was allotted land as reward by the then UP government, a portion of which has been utilised by the local administration for erecting a bus stand. It was way back in 2007 when Kanwasi found out about the violation. Multiple requests put in with the government and the local authorities never gave him answers while he was also served notice by the state to vacate the land.

Folk instruments of state losing sheen

Traditional musical instruments have grown less attractive with successive generations and this has taken a toll on continuity of folk sounds. Traditional musical instruments of Uttarakhand are now slowly on the verge of extinction, feels Jugal Kishore Pandey, an art lover associated with these traditional musical instruments. In the state's Kumaon division where traditional instruments are considered very popular, people engaged in this line of work as well as musicians who take to them has waned to a limited section in the society.

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

NARAYANPUR district — one of the worst Maoist-affected areas of the conflict zone of Bastar in south Chhattisgarh — has secured a place in the top five under 'Overall Performance Category' among the 115 aspirational districts that received the grading on a system devised by the NITI Aayog.

The Delta ranking measuring the incremental progress achieved by the aspirational districts of the country, released by the NITI Aayog for the month of August has inspired and revitalised the backward district for having recorded far better progress on various sectors and underlying parameters earmarked for the aspirational districts.

Narayanpur district ranks second in the health and nutrition category, and fourth in the education category.

"Narayanpur with a top rank defies the Maoist threat as the district administration came closer to the local tribal population. The district has embarked upon various strategies to transform the backward district through a concerted effort by throwing open its potential," said CM Bhupesh Baghel.

"The achievement is a well-grounded beginning in the direction of growth and progress", said Rituraj Raghuvanshi, Narayanpur district collector.

The achievement is a well-grounded beginning in the direction of growth and progress
Rituraj Raghuvanshi, DC, Narayanpur

Education infrastructure was re-established through the commencement of government-run Swami Atmanand English Medium Schools. Recruitment of health professionals and the intervention like Mukhyamnatri Suposhan Abhigyan interposed to combat malnutrition among children, severely anaemic women and girls identified, increased institutional delivery and heart facilities enhanced. The inhospitable area where the healthcare facility was non-functional saw an increase in outpatient health care services, Raghuvanshi added.

'Dhanvantri puja' in MP med colleges

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

TWO days after Union Home Minister Amit Shah released three Hindi books of MBBS first year in Bhopal, the Shivraj Singh Chouhan government has now decided to celebrate Dhanvantri Jayanti on October 23 in medical colleges of Madhya Pradesh.

"It has been decided that special Bhagwan Dhanvantri Punjab will be held in medical colleges of MP on the festival of Dhan Teras. This pujan to mark Dhanvantri Jayanti will become annual affair in all government medical colleges and associated hospitals on Dhan Teras," state's medical education minister Vishvas Sarang said on Tuesday. MP has 13 government medical colleges.

Bhagwan Dhanvantri, who as per Hindu mythology is the God of Medicine, is believed to be the incarnation of Lord Vishnu. "Special prayers will be offered to Bhagwan Dhanvantri by the students, academic staff as well as doctors and attendants of patients," said Sarang said.

Pawar to back Fadnavis 'close pal' in Maha Cricket Board prez poll

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

Sharad Pawar

Devendra Fadnavis

SHARAD Pawar has friends across the political spectrum. That's how he has been able to cobble up many alliances, the previous major one was the Maha Vikas Aghadi that brought in Shiv Sena and Congress together. After Uddhav's exit and the MVA's collapse, the NCP chief hasn't called BJP an "untouchable" notwithstanding his reported support for the Congress' Bharat Jodo Yatra.

In his inimitable style, Pawar has now decided to campaign for a close aide of BJP's Devendra Fadnavis, Amol Kale, for the election of Mumbai Cricket Association (MCA) president, due Oct 20. Kale is pitted against Indian batting star Sandeep Patil. The NCP chief has joined hands with BJP's Ashish Shelar. Pawar had earlier backed Shelar for the top post, but the BJP leader was chosen as the BCCI treasurer and withdrew his candidature for the MCA post, paving the way for Amol Kale to contest the election.

Sources said in the previous MCA elections, Amol Kale, the school buddy of Devendra Fadnavis, wanted to get elected to the top MCA post, but Pawar had opposed his candidature. This time, however, Pawar has decided to campaign for Amol Kale after Shelar's withdrawal from the fray.

Interestingly, Sandeep Patil and Sharad Pawar belonged to the same panel. Patil was a part of the Pawar group, but Pawar later merged his group with BJP leader Ashish Shelar, forcing Patil to form his own panel and contest the election. There are three candidates Ajinkya Naik, the incumbent apex council member, Mayank Khandwala, former MCA treasurer, and Neil Savant for the vice president post of MCA.

In the MCA elections, 23 candidates are in the fray for nine apex council seats.

23 candidates contesting for nine seats

In the MCA elections, 23 candidates are in the fray for nine apex council seats. Former NC minister Jitendra Awhad (NCP) and Milind Narvekar (PA to Uddhav Thackeray) have also filed their nominations for the Council members.

DIWALI SPECTACLE

6 lakh earthen lamps to light up Bihar village along Ganga

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THESE days, a village in Bihar's Munger district is bustling with activities as its residents have decided to break their own record by lighting six lakh earthen lamps on the banks of river Ganga.

Last Diwali, they had lit five lakh earthen lamps and 1.75 lakh earthen lamps in 2020, respectively.

As Kalyanpur village is readying itself to dazzle more this Diwali, its residents are busy in making logistic arrangements for the big event as potters from Munger and adjoining districts have been asked to supply earthen lamps.

The convener of Youth Club's IT cell Vipul Dubey said, "There is a possibility that villagers will light 10 lakh earthen lamps next Diwali."

"As it is believed that the Diwali festival begins with Dhanteras, Ganga ghats will be illuminated with lighting of six lakh earthen lamps from this day itself," he added.

Comparatively a prosperous village, Kalyanpur has the population of around 10,000.

Village's women who regularly light earthen lamps on banks of river Ganga will play a major role in lighting so many of them this Diwali.

Dubey said, "Lighting lamps are a symbol of peace, unity and light and so many earthen lamps will be lit on Diwali to spread the message of love and brotherhood in the society."

The demand of earthen lamps has increased manifold, potters are working overtime at the village. "We are running short of time. So we are working overtime to meet the deadline," said Raja Pandit, a potter by profession.

MARITIME

PM: Time to revive India's historical past

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ A'bad

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said that even thousands of years ago India was a major maritime power and part of major sea trade routes. Reviewing the progress of the National Maritime Heritage Complex at Lothal in Gujarat, he said India had great maritime kingdoms but its heritage is forgotten.

"There are numerous stories of our history that we were made to forget. Ways were not explored to preserve them and pass them on to the next generations. We could have learned so much from those incidents of history, India's maritime heritage is one such which is discussed very little," he said.

"The shackles of colonialism impeded the maritime prowess we forgot that we had a great heritage like Lothal and Dholavira which were populated for maritime trade even thousands of years ago," he added.

Bilkis case: Bulky Guj affidavit irks SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

PULLING up the Gujarat government for filing a bulky counter affidavit in response to the pleas filed by three women's rights activists, including Subhashini Ali, challenging the release of the 11 convicts in the Bilkis Bano case, the Supreme Court on Tuesday posted the petitions for November 29.

A bench of justices Ajay Rastogi and C T Ravikumar said, "In counter affidavit, series of judgments have been quoted. When we were looking into the counter affidavit, series of judgment were coming forward. We didn't know what was the factual statement and where was the application of mind."

Addressing Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, Justice Rastogi said he has not come across a counteraffidavit where a series of judgments have been quoted. Mehta concurred, saying it could have been avoided.

The Gujarat government in its 477-page affidavit had told the SC that the state decided to release the 11 convicts on completion of their 14 years sentence as their "behaviour was found to be good" and after approval from the Central government. It added that the opinions of the Inspector General of Prisons, Gujarat State, Jail Superintendents, Jail Advisory Committee, District Magistrate, Police Superintendent, CBI, Special Crime Branch, Mumbai and Sessions Court, Mumbai (CBI) were considered.

It questioned the locus of the petitioners, saying third party strangers should be precluded from questioning a remission order passed in accordance with law.

Raj to cover sex surgery costs of transgender

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

In a unique initiative, the Rajasthan government will give monetary support to transgender people looking for SRS (sex reassignment surgery). The Ashok Gehlot-led-government claims that this aims to ensure a life of dignity for transgender people and enable them to live in tune with their true personality.

Gehlot announced an assistance of up to ₹2.50 lakh for every sex reassignment surgery to each transgender person who wants to transform into a male or female through surgical process.

Omprakash Toshniwal, deputy director of the Department of Social Justice and Empowerment, said that the scheme has been launched under the Samman Yojana.

"This surgery will be undertaken only on the wishes of a transgender person. Interested eligible transgender people can apply to the Social Empowerment Justice Department. If the surgery is done in a government hospital, then this process will be free or we will pay up to Rs 2.50 lakh."

The number of transgender people in the state is over 20,000. The state government has also created an 'Uthan Kosh' of ₹10 crore for this project.

Russian strikes knock out one-third of Ukraine's power grid: Zelenskyy

KYIV

UKRAINE warned on Tuesday of an emerging "critical" risk to its power grid after President Volodymyr Zelensky said that repeated Russian bombardments had destroyed one-third of the country's power facilities as winter approaches.

That warning came as Russian forces claimed to have retaken territory from Ukrainian troops in the eastern Kharkiv region, Moscow's first announced capture of a village there since being nearly entirely pushed out of the region last month. At the same time, Russian attacks rocked energy facilities in Kyiv and urban centres across the country, causing blackouts and disrupting water supplies, just one day after the capital was bombarded with a swarm of suicide drones.

"The situation is critical now across the country because our regions are dependent on one another... it's necessary for the whole country to prepare for electricity, water and heating outages," Kyrylo Tymoshenko, the deputy head of the Ukrainian president's office, told Ukrainian television. The strikes in the early hours of Tuesday hit Kyiv, Kharkiv in the east, Mykolaiv in the south and central regions of Dnipro and Zhytomyr, where officials said hospitals were running on back-up generators. Drones also bombarded Kyiv on Monday leaving five dead, officials said, in what the presidency described as an attack of desperation.

It was the second Monday in a row that Russia launched punitive strikes which military observers have said appear to be Moscow's response to battlefield losses. Zelensky described the repeated targeting of energy infrastructure as "another kind of Russian terrorist attacks".

"Since October 10, 30 percent of Ukraine's power stations have been destroyed, causing massive blackouts across the country," the Ukrainian leader said on Twitter.

He said the attack meant that there was "no space left for negotiations with (President Vladimir) Putin's regime".

Many towns and cities in the Zhytomyr region west of Kyiv and parts of the city of Dnipro in central Ukraine were without electricity, while power was restored to the southern city of Mykolaiv after strikes overnight. Agencies

SL author wins Booker Prize for civil war novel

COLOMBO

Sri Lankan author Shehan Karunatilaka won prestigious Booker Prize on Monday for his novel, The Seven Moons of Maali Almeida, set against the backdrop of the country's brutal civil war.

Karunatilaka accepted the award and 50,000 pounds from Queen Consort Camilla at a glittering ceremony in London. Neil MacGregor, Chair of the 2022 Booker judges called Karunatilaka's story of a gay, gambling wartime photographer a "metaphysical thriller, an afterlife noir that dissolves the boundaries not just of different genres, but of life and death, body and spirit, east and west."

A serious philosophical romp that takes reader to ... the murderous horrors of civil war

Neil MacGregor, chair of judges

He further said it is "an entirely serious philosophical romp" that takes the reader to the 'world's dark heart' – the murderous horrors of civil war in Sri Lanka. "And once there, the reader also discovers the tenderness and beauty, the love and loyalty and the pursuit of an ideal that justify every human life." In his acceptance speech, Karunatilaka addressed the people of his country of birth in both Sinhala and Tamil, and said in English: "I write these books for you". He expressed hopes that the political situation in the island would improve soon and his novel would "sit on the fantasy shelves of bookshops" in Lanka. The 47-year-old author is the second Sri Lankan to win the coveted British literature prize, after Michael Ondatje, who won the Booker Prize for his novel The English Patient (1992), which was later made into a movie. The Booker-winning book follows Karunatilaka's debut novel Chinaman, published in 2011.

His debut novel itself was a success, winning the Commonwealth Prize, the DSL and the Gratian prize. The original 1969 Booker Prize trophy was reinstated this year in memory of its creator Jan Piekowski.

Overnight rains add to Phuket's flood woes

Heavy rain pounded parts of Phuket province on Monday night, hampering efforts to drain water from areas that were already flooded after Sunday's downpour, The Bangkok Post reported. Water level rose in many areas of Muang district. Four pumps operating in their full capacity could not bring much relief to Soi Phaniang and Soi Samkong areas. The website quoted Phuket disaster prevention and mitigation office as saying that all local administrations were pooling efforts to drain water

UK's Trades Union Congress calls on PM Truss to resign

LONDON

AS the sun beat down on Tuesday on the English seaside resort of Brighton, gathering union leaders warned of mass winter strikes in the face of Britain's cost-of-living crisis.

The Trades Union Congress (TUC) conference kicked off with demands that embattled Prime Minister Liz Truss step down. That coincided with news that coffin makers are the latest UK workers set to strike as their pay fails to keep up with decades-high inflation.

In Brighton, on England's south coast, the National Education Union's joint leader was categorical.

"It's inevitable that Liz Truss will go," Kevin Courtney told AFP, as the prime minister battled to stabilise her position after an economic crash forced her into humiliating U-turns on tax cuts

"The total loss of credibility she's had means that there's no way the Conservative party will have her as their leader when they go into the next general election," he predicted. "They should call an election now." In a packed Brighton conference hall, outgoing TUC general secretary Frances O'Grady also demanded that the prime minister step down. "I have a message for Liz Truss: Working people are proud of the jobs we do. We work hard. We work the longest hours in Europe," she told delegates, who responded with loud applause.

Liz Truss

"Yet thanks to your party's 12 years in government, millions are struggling to make ends meet."

Keir Starmer, leader of the main opposition Labour party, is due to address the TUC on Thursday, when the conference wraps up.

While unions are traditionally allied to the Labour party, Starmer is expected to face a frosty reception after refusing to support the latest strike action and banning MPs in his senior team from joining picket lines. It comes as tens of thousands of teachers and state-employed health workers are being balloted on possible walkouts.

Indian-origin expert to join UK economic council

LONDON

SUSHIL Wadhwani, an Indian-origin investment expert is among four financial specialists appointed to a new Economic Advisory Council by UK Chancellor Jeremy Hunt to meet regularly and act as a consultative forum to offer independent advice to the government.

Wadhwani, who heads up PGIM Wadhwani asset management firm as Chief Investment Officer and has over 30 years of investment experience, has been a former member of the Bank of England's independent Monetary Policy Committee (MPC). He will join Gertjan Vlieghe of Element Capital, who has also been a member of the MPC, and Rupert Harrison of BlackRock and Karen Ward of JP Morgan Asset Management, who have experience of working with past UK finance ministers.

Ex-British pilots lured by China to train PLA troops

LONDON

The UK government said on Tuesday that it is taking "decisive steps" to stop lucrative Chinese recruitment schemes attempting to headhunt serving and former British military pilots to train the People's Liberation Army personnel in China.

According to reports, around 30 former UK military pilots are thought to have gone to train members of China's Army and an intelligence alert is being issued to warn RAF and other Armed Forces personnel against such recruitment drives. While the recruitment does not breach current UK laws, the Ministry of Defence said the new National Security Bill would create additional tools to tackle such 'security challenges'. "We are taking steps to stop Chinese recruitment schemes," an official said.

Air India eyes 30% share in overseas market

Currently, the loss-making airline has a domestic market share of 10% and international market share of 12%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AFTER setting a target to achieve 30% share in the domestic market, Tata Group-owned Air India is now eying a similar share in the international market (to and from India) over the next five year in accordance with its revival plan 'Vihaan.AI'.

"Air India aims to have 30% share in domestic and international markets in the next five years... The airline is working on "restoring the reputation" and there is evidence that progress is being made," said Air India CEO and MD Campbell Wilson on Tuesday

Currently, the loss-making airline has a domestic market share of 10% and an international market share of 12%.

According to Wilson, the airline will triple its fleet in the next five years.

The airline will be inducting 5 wide-body Boeing and 25 Airbus narrow-body planes over the next 15 months. The aircraft being leased are 21 Airbus A320 neos, 4 Airbus A321 neos and 5 Boeing B777-200LRs.

Currently, Air India has 113 aircraft in its fleet. Its narrow-body fleet stands at 70 aircraft. Out of them, 54 are in service and the remaining 16 aircraft will progressively return to service by early 2023. The wide-body fleet stands at 43 aircraft, of which 33 are operational. The rest will return to service by early 2023.

Since the acquisition of Air India in January this year, the salt-to-steel conglomerate is said to be working to increase synergy between its different airlines.

In late April this year, it had proposed to acquire the no-frills carrier AirAsia India for which it has received approval from the Competition Commission of India (CCI). Last week, the Singapore Airlines (SIA) confirmed it is in "confidential discussions" with the Tata Group to explore possible merger of Vistara and Air India.

Market rallies for third straight session, adds 1%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

DOMESTIC equity market extended their gains for the third consecutive session with benchmark indices Sensex and Nifty surging nearly 1% on Tuesday on positive global cues.

The 30-share Sensex ended at 58,961, up 550 points or 0.94%, while the broader Nifty50 closed at 17,487, 175 points or 1%, higher.

The rally in the domestic market was supported by a sharp surge in the US market on Monday and a strong buying seen across Asian markets on Tuesday.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 1.86%, the S&P 500 gained 2.65% and the Nasdaq Composite added 3.43% on Monday. Among Asian markets, Hong Kong's Hang Seng index surged 1.8% on Tuesday, Tokyo's Nikkei 225 index 1.4% and Kospi in Seoul 1.4%.

Currently, it appears that the global equity market has turned blind to Federal Reserve's hawkish stance on future rate hikes and looming recession fears, and is driven by a strong September quarter earning show. "The Indian market is sustaining its gains due to favourable global & domestic cues. Home-grown positivity is the downward trend of crude prices and upside prospects to Q2 corporate earnings," said Vinod Nair, head of Research at Geojit Financial Services.

Deepak Jasani, head of Retail Research, HDFC Securities, said financial market sentiment improved on Tuesday (for India) as the result of better-than-expected earnings from Bank of America Corp, as well as developments in the UK under new finance minister Jeremy Hunt. The new FM's decision to scrap Prime Minister Liz Truss' proposed tax cuts and rein in her energy subsidies is welcomed by investors.

Coming to Tuesday's rally, SBI, Adani Ports, Eicher Motors and Nestle India were among the top gainers in the Nifty pack.

CHINA

GDP DELAY AMPLIFIES ECONOMIC DISTRESS SIGNAL

China's National Bureau of Statistics late on Monday delayed the release of the country's Q3 GDP data, originally scheduled for October 18, as well as other economic indicators due later in the week. The agency has not yet rescheduled their release. The delay invites speculation that the numbers show the economy is in bad shape and are being kept under wraps so they don't steal the thunder of the ruling Communist Party's twice-a-decade congress, which began on Sunday. China's state banks also stepped up their intervention to defend a weakening yuan on Monday, per Reuters. But officials have played down the importance of GDP targets this year. Moreover, given economists reckon this could be China's second-slowest year of growth since 1976, per a Reuters poll, investors have probably priced that in. That's including expectations that output would have rebounded from the weak 0.4% growth in the second quarter to 3.4% in the three months to the end of September. Last month was also a pleasant surprise on the stimulus front: new bank lending nearly doubled from August as the central bank guided more credit support.

JAPAN

BOJ'S KURODA SAYS HAS NO INTENTION OF RESIGNING

Bank of Japan Governor Haruhiko Kuroda said on Tuesday he had no intention of stepping down, when asked by an opposition lawmaker on whether he would take responsibility for failing to achieve his 2% inflation target and hurting the economy with a weak yen. Speaking in the same parliament session, Prime Minister Fumio Kishida defended the BOJ's policy, saying the government will play its part by ensuring wages rise enough to compensate households for the rising cost of living. "The BOJ has responsibility over monetary policy, including an exit strategy (from ultra-loose policy)," Kishida said. Meanwhile, Japan warned Tuesday of "appropriate" action to counter excessive volatility in the currency market after the yen hit a 32-year low against the U.S. dollar amid jitters over further possible intervention and its impact on the economy. Kishida said in parliament that the yen's rapid depreciation is "problematic" and the government will work with the Bank of Japan in taking appropriate steps. BOJ Governor Haruhiko Kuroda rejected an opposition lawmaker's demand that he step down over years of easing by the central bank that has weakened the yen but failed to achieve its inflation target.

SRI LANKA

APPROVES LAW TO LIBERALISE PETROLEUM IMPORTS

Sri Lanka approved legislation on Tuesday to let companies from oil-producing nations import and sell fuel as it attempts to cope with a steep oil bill that deepened its worst financial crisis in decades. The island of 22 million people is caught in the throes of a severe foreign exchange shortage that has left it struggling to import sufficient essentials including medicine, fertilizer and food. But one of the biggest challenges has been finding dollars for diesel and petrol imports for vehicles and power generation with the country seeing long lines, sometimes running into kilometres (miles) during the worst of the crisis, and power cuts that have been ongoing for eight months. Sri Lanka's monthly fuel bill doubled to US$600 million this year, partly because of the hike in global prices due to the war in Ukraine, but the country can only afford to spend about US$350 million, he added. State-run banks have also struggled to repay about $751 million it owes to suppliers, the minister said.

Auditor makes adverse opinion on internal financial controls of BYJU'S

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

EDTECH major BYJU'S, which recently filed its FY21 financial statement with the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, seems to be facing some serious issues with internal financial controls.

The statutory auditor of the company – Deloitte Haskins & Sells – has made an adverse opinion, a rarity, on the finances of the company.

Deloitte Haskins & Sells, in the adverse opinion, has said the parent and its subsidiary companies have not maintained adequate and effective internal financial controls over financial reporting as of March 31, 2021.

It has identified certain material weaknesses including revenue recognition relating to assessment of terms of consumer contracts, evaluation of probability of collection, determination of fair value of guarantees given on behalf of customers and estimation of sales returns, among others.

It said that recording of customer-wise details of collections may result in inadequate provision for expected credit loss.

"Weaknesses in internal financial control would indicate presence of some high value transactions that do not culminate into accepted accounting practices," said Rajat Mohan, senior partner, AMRG & Associates.

He added that this kind of reporting by an auditor would have serious repercussions for the investors of the company.

The auditor has also not recognised revenues from transfer of products under deferred payment terms totalling Rs. 1,156.27 crores because these transfers did not meet the criteria in respect of collections on the date of the transfers.

The firm has been facing the heat after it announced $800 million funding in March this year, and subsequently it did not receive $250 million funds from Sumeru Ventures and Oxshott till July. However, it raised the same amount last week from existing investors including Qatar Investment Authority.

The company has sacked 2,500 employees, and said its top priority is to achieve profitability by March 2023. BYJU'S revenue from operations grew 4% to ₹2,280.26 crore in FY21 compared to ₹2,189 crore in the previous year.

Semi-urban markets driver for unsecured lending

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

DESPITE the pandemic, unsecured retail finance has steadily grown at nearly 25% over the past three years (FY19-FY22), and semi-urban markets have been the primary source of growth for unsecured retail lending products with about 32% CAGR in Tier-4 regions, says a new report.

According to Bain & Company's India Fintech Report 2022: Sailing Through Turbulent Tides, short-term, small-ticket consumer loan products grew rapidly as a preferred mode of consumption financing. Additionally, equated monthly instalment (EMI)-based credit card propositions are gaining traction in the small-ticket-size segments.

It saw the emergence and scale-up of convenience Buy Now Pay Later (BNPL) such as Simpl and LazyPay, affordability BNPL (e.g., ZestMoney), and card-based lending products.

However, the report says recent regulations restricting Prepaid Payment Instruments (PPIs) from offering credit lines and the new digital lending guidelines will adversely impact the current business models of these players, especially card-based lending and BNPL players providing a revolving line of credit.

With the RBI expected to set up a fintech division, regulatory oversight on consumption financing, specifically led by fintechs such as DLAs or loan service providers (LSPs) and on fintechs more generally is expected to increase, going forward. The report also says that currently accounting for nearly 7% of India's $1.4 trillion Financial Services EV(Enterprise value), the fintech sector is expected to grow to $350 billion in EV by 2026, representing nearly 15% of FS market cap.

Also, digital lending apps accounted for more than 60% of loans disbursed by NBFCs in FY21. As far as funding is concerned, Indian fintechs witnessed record investment and deal activity, receiving approximately $10 billion in funding across more than 580 deals in FY21, which was three times the $3.5 billion received in 2020.

PPI regulations to impact biz models of fintech players

Report says recent regulations restricting Prepaid Payment Instruments (PPIs) from offering credit lines and new digital lending guidelines will adversely impact current business models of these players, especially card-based lending and BNPL players providing a revolving line of credit

Adani Defence to acquire Air Works for ₹400 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

EXPANDING its footprint in defence sector, Adani Group company Adani Defence Systems & Technologies (ADSTL) has acquired Air Works for an enterprise value of ₹400 crore.

Adani claims Air Works is India's biggest independent maintenance, repair and operations (MRO) service provider with the largest pan-India network presence across 27 cities.

As per ADSTL's statement, from first P-8I aircraft Phase 32 checks to Phase 48 checks and MRO on landing gear of the Indian Air Force's 737 VVIP aircraft, Air Works undertakes base maintenance for ATR 42/72, A320 and B737 fleet of aircraft from its EASA and DGCA-certified facilities at Mumbai, Delhi, Hosur and Kochi. "Given India's growth trajectory and the government's focus to network the nation through a massive mesh of air connectivity, it is inevitable the primary growth of India's airline and airport sector lies ahead of it. Therefore, the maintenance, repair, and overhaul sector has a crucial role to play in both defence and civilian aerospace sector." "Ongoing modernisation program to make India a large market for defence aircraft and what emerges is one of the most exciting, comprehensive, at scale and digital MRO services within boundaries of the nation," said Ashish Rajvanshi, CEO of Adani Defence & Aerospace.

Reliance Jio dethrones BSNL, becomes market leader in wireline services

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

RELIANCE JIO, the largest telecom operator in the wirelss segment, has also become the market leader in the wireline segment as well.

Latest data from the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) shows Jio has pipped state-owned Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited (BSNL) with a 28.31% market share as against the latter's 27.46% in the wireline services. Jio added 0.26 million new wireline customers in August 2022, taking its customer base to 7.35 million as against BSNL's 71.32 million.

BSNL is facing stiff competition from private telcos and not able to perform as per the expectation. The firm continued to lose subscribers in both wireline and wireless segments. BSNL lost 0.56 million wireless and 15,734 wireline subscribers in August 2022. In July 2022, it lost nearly 810,000 wireless subscribers and 54,375 wireline subscribers. However to give a lifeline to the ailing telco, the government announced a ₹1.64 lakh crore package. Meanwhile, Jio added 3.28 million new mobile users in August 2022, taking its customer base to 419.24 million. Airtel added 0.32 million new users and Vodafone Idea lost 1.9 million users. The net addition of wireless users in August for the Indian telecom industry was 10,81,415 users. In terms of active wireless subscribers, Airtel has the maximum proportion 98.31% of its active wireless subscribers (VLR).

Dependency on fossil fuel unhealthy: RK Singh

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

DAYS after finance minister NIrmal Sitharam said India will be forced to use coal as gas prices are beyond means, power minister R K Singh on Tuesday said dependency on fossil fuels is unhealthy, not just for the environment, but also for the economy.

The minister speaking at the fifth edition of International Solar Alliance (ISA) said India has responsibility of enabling development in parts of the world that lack access to energy and energy security.

"The past two years have provided us with multiple reminders that the global dependence on fossil fuels is unhealthy, not just for the environment, but also for the economy," said R K Singh. He added that, "The good news is we already have the tools we need to counter these, and the development in technology is making sure that even more effective resources will be made available in the years to come. It is now up to us to decide how quickly we can deploy these."

"In this pursuit for energy transition, we have the responsibility of enabling development in parts of the world that lack access to energy," he said. Meanwhile, India and France are re-elected as President and co-President of the ISA at the fifth general assembly of the body.

SBI INCREASES SAVINGS DEPOSIT RATES BY 30 BPS

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

STATE BANK OF INDIA, the country's largest bank, has increased the interest rates on saving bank deposits by 0.30 percentage points (30 bps) for the balance ₹10 crore and above.

The interest rates for deposits below ₹10 crore remain unchanged at 2.70%. The revised rates are applicable from October 15, 2022, onwards. Earlier, the bank had also increased its interest rates on fixed deposits below ₹2 crore by 10-25 basis points effective from October 15. The bank is offering up to 5.85% interest on fixed deposits from tenure of up to 10 years. The bank has also raised FD rates for senior citizens. Senior citizens can get up to 6.35% interest in deposits with the bank. SBI is the only bank to have increased the FD rates following the latest hike in repo rate by the RBI (RBI).

Nissan showcases 3 SUVs for Indian market

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

AFTER the success of its small SUV Magnite, Nissan is banking on its global sports utility vehicle (SUV) line-up to expand its presence in the Indian market.

The Japanese brand on Tuesday showcased 3 global SUVs and said they are evaluating the models' feasibility for Indian market. Nissan confirmed it has begun testing of two models -- X-Trail and Qashqai. The third potential vehicle for the local market is Juke SUV. Once testing is complete, X-Trail will be introduced for sale first, followed by other models. The three models will initially be launched as CBU (complete built unit) imports.

"The Indian market has boundless potential and it is critical that we introduce the best vehicle line-up to align with what modern Indian consumers want and need," said Frank Torres, President, Nissan India. "Following the success of Magnite in India, we plan to strengthen our focus and leverage our expertise on high-quality SUVs that have become synonymous with our reputation." The SUV assessments, as per Nissan, are part of a holistic study it is undertaking to prepare for its future in India. Nissan has been present in India for nearly two decades now but has so far remained a niche player with a low single-digit market share in the 30 lakh annual domestic passenger vehicle (PV) market. Nissan said its wide-ranging review includes securing future localised production for long-term viability of domestic and export manufacturing, as well as exploring potential for electrification in the longer term.

Will not send Indian team to Pakistan for 2023 Asia Cup: BCCI secy Shah

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

IN what turned out to be a routine BCCI annual general body meeting where 1983 World Cup winner Roger Binny took over as the new president, secretary Jay Shah has revealed that India will not tour Pakistan for next year's Asia Cup. The decision, which comes just a few days before the two teams are set to face each other at the T20 World Cup in Melbourne, has added a bit of tension to the contest. Interestingly, there hasn't been any official communication from the Indian government about the Asia Cup or sending the team to Pakistan.

The BCCI's AGM to elect a new set of office-bearers went smoothly with Binny taking over the mantle from Sourav Ganguly also has new faces (see box). Shah is the only office-bearer, who will continue in his chair after being elected unopposed. The big announcement from the AGM from an Indian perspective was the formal approval to conduct a women's IPL, with details on the number of teams and the auction of franchises expected in the coming weeks.

Speaking to reporters at the conclusion of the AGM, Binny who was the president of Karnataka State Cricket Association until recently, said his focus will be on prevention of injuries and improving the quality of pitches in domestic cricket. "We will look to improve on what we can do to reduce the injuries to players. Players getting frequently injured is a concern, and we wish to get to the bottom of it all and see how it can be changed for the better," Binny said.

Former Indian cricketer Roger Binny (fourth from right) took charge as the new President of the BCCI after the AGM on Tuesday | PTI

Speaking shortly afterwards, Shah revealed that the next edition of Asia Cup would be hosted in a neutral venue. It is contrary to the decision taken in March by the Asian Cricket Council – also headed by Shah – where it was decided that the Asia Cup would be hosted by Pakistan. "The Asia Cup 2023 will be held at a neutral venue. I am saying this as ACC President. We (India) can't go there (to Pakistan), they can't come here. In the past also, the Asia Cup has been played at a neutral venue," Shah said.

New office bearers of the BCCI

President: Roger Binny
Vice President: Rajeev Shukla
Secretary: Jay Shah
Joint Secretary: Devajit Saikia
Treasurer: Ashish Shelar

Arun Singh Dhumal • Avishek Dalmiya

Since 2013, India and Pakistan have not played any bilateral series and even in the next FTP, both the nations face each other only in ICC and ACC events. With international cricket returning to Pakistan, the Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) has been keen on hosting the Asia Cup at home. Although PCB is yet to respond formally on the issue, there are indications that PCB – which has the hosting rights for the next Asia Cup – will not agree to take the event to a neutral venue. There are also talks that the PCB may even drop out of the Asia council as it has failed its basic purpose of uniting the teams from the region.

Moreover, this also puts a question mark over Pakistan's participation in the 2023 50-over World Cup to be played in India. With the World Cup set to follow the Asia Cup, BCCI's refusal to send the team to Pakistan means the neighbours will also explore their options. The issue will now reach the ICC's door step.

U-23 WORLDS VISA DENIAL

Travel agent did what WFI couldn't

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

EVEN as the Spanish Embassy rejected the visa application of the 21 Indian wrestlers selected to take part in the U-23 World Championships, a private travel agent managed to procure the same for a woman grappler. That too in less than a week. The Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) applied for visas for the Indian team comprising 30 wrestlers on October 4.

Shocked with the treatment meted out to the Indian wrestlers by the host nation, the WFI president Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh has sent a letter to the world governing body UWW (United World Wrestling) and the Spain federation. Singh has also written to the Spanish government drawing its attention to the fact how a private agent managed to procure a visa even when an affiliated unit of the UWW couldn't do that.

Haryana's Priyanka defeated her statemate Bhavna in the 76kg trials. She, however, got injured later forcing her to withdraw. The situation meant Bhavna's kin wanted her to replace Priyanka. "They (Bhavna's kin) spoke to the federation but by then the visa application had been sent. So they proceeded in their personal capacity with the help of a travel agent. What shocked us was that even as wrestlers, who were recommended by the WFI, were refused visa, the woman's kin managed to obtain the same for her and that too within four days," Vinod Tomar, assistant secretary of the WFI, told this daily.

The wrestlers (10 each in men's freestyle, Greco-Roman and women's wrestling) were selected following trials to compete in the event, which started on Monday in Pontevedra. Only nine of them (six Greco-Roman, two women and one freestyle) were cleared for participation by the Spanish Embassy. It was the reason for refusal cited by the Embassy, which drew maximum flak. "There is a reasonable doubt as to your intention to leave the territory of the Member States before the expiry of the visa," read the refusal letter sent to 21 wrestlers.

Tomar said the WFI president wrote the letter, with visa approval of Bhavna attached alongwith it, to the Spanish government. "The federation president wrote that the incident indicates possible corruption in the Embassy and requested the government to probe it," added Tomar.

As things stand, only nine wrestlers from the country could compete in the event. Ironically, despite the visa Bhavna, who has never represented the country in an international meet as per Tomar, has to wait for her debut as her name was not in the entry list sent by the WFI.

Srikanth, Treesa-Gayatri in second round

ODENSE: Kidambi Srikanth staved off a challenge from Hong Kong's Ng Ka Long Angus progressing to the second round of the Denmark Open Super 750 badminton on Tuesday. Srikanth notched a win of 17-21 21-14 21-12. CWG bronze medallists Treesa Jolly and Gayatri Gopichand also advanced beating Denmark's Alexandra Boje and Amalie Magelund 21-15 21-15 in their women's doubles.

Three Indians in Aimchess Rapid KOs

CHENNAI: Three Indian players — D Gukesh, Arjun Erigaisi and Vidit Santosh Gujrathi — have advanced to the quarterfinals of the Aimchess Rapid online tournament. Gukesh will take on Richard Rapport in the knockout round, while Erigiasi will battle it out against world no.1 Magnus Carlsen. Gujrathi will take on Jan-Krzystof Duda of Poland.

Cummins named as Australia's ODI skipper

MELBOURNE: Pat Cummins was on Tuesday named as Australia's new ODI captain following Aaron Finch's retirement from the format. Cummins beat the likes of Steve Smith, Glenn Maxwell, Mitchell March and Alex Carey to be appointed the 27th ODI skipper. David Warner was not considered as his lifetime leadership ban still remains.

The grammar of T20 cricket is constantly evolving. Terminologies common in other forms of the game has become obsolete in the shortest format. Likewise, there are lexicons that's unique to T20s, more so in bowling. Swaroop Swaminathan looks at some of the roles and terms commentators will keep mentioning at the WC...

BALL DANCE

ROLE: ENFORCER

Typical phase: Middle and, maybe, death

It's a more recent addition to the format's thesaurus. It's basically a pacer who can bowl high pace (140+kmph) and constantly be in and around the hip of the batter. Enforcers typically operate after the powerplay as they try to get into the middle-over, batters who are typically excellent against spin. In recent times, Mark Wood is an example that readily comes to mind. Lockie Ferguson is another. Closer home, there are no enforcers in the Indian attack, something that could make them one-dimensional as you would expect the spinners to be in operation.

ROLE: POWERPLAY WICKET-TAKER

Typical phase: Overs 1-15

In the earlier days, the format's best bowler would bowl overs 1-3-18-20. These days, opening bowlers have been segregated into two categories. The powerplay wicket-takers are bowlers who typically finish their quota before the end overs. Their primary job is to extract any seam if possible to take a few wickets in the powerplay. Trent Boult is a T20 great precisely because he does this very effectively. From an Indian perspective, Bhuvneshwar Kumar and Deepak Chahar are the closest to essaying this role but without Jasprit Bumrah, he may end up bowling at least one over at the death.

LENGTH: HARD-LENGTHS

Typical phase: Post the powerplay

It typically means a pacer pounding the surface and getting the ball to climb. While the yorker remains the principal bowling currency, the hard-length is an option a lot of bowlers are increasingly looking at. For one, the margin of error is greater. The advantage is that it's a tactic that bowlers with different skill-sets can emulate. For India, both Hardik Pandya and Harshal Patel have the tools to execute this strategy even if both of them aren't naturally pacers with extreme heat.

ROLE: BACKLOADED BOWLER

Typical phase: Middle and death

This role can overlap with that of an enforcer but it's different in a number of ways. The primary difference is the speed and the lengths. These type of bowlers typically have a wide variety of cutters, knuckleballs and wide yorkers. The captain usually turns to them after the powerplay, sometimes even after the first 10 overs, hence the name 'backloaded'. For India, the likes of Harshal may operate in this phase of the game where they will be required to bowl at least three of the four allotted overs.

ROLE: TRADITIONAL 1-3-18-20 BOWLER

Typical phase: Powerplay and death

Some teams give part-time bowlers the new ball to get at least one of their overs out of the way early. Others, like Pakistan, go the other way. They give Shaheen Shah Afridi first crack because the shine on the ball marries the swing, if any, off the strip. And he is the best in this phase as nobody takes more wickets than him. They also use him to close out the innings with his yorkers. From an Indian perspective, Mohammed Shami is the closest in that he will take the new ball as well be expected to deliver at the death.

ROLE: STRANGLER

Typical phase: 7-16

Strictly speaking, this term has been invented to describe what batting teams do to Rashid Khan, probably the most valuable T20 asset. Because he's so gun and it's very hard to hit him without losing wickets, teams play him out and target the side's other bowlers. He typically takes the ball immediately after the powerplay and at least three of the next six overs for most of his franchises. So, he has just become the perfect 4-0-25-1 bowler. His skillset is so unique in world cricket that there really is nobody else who can perform this role to perfection.

ROLE: MIDDLE OVER WICKET-TAKERS (SPINNERS)

Typical phase: 7-16

They are the closest to enforcers but for the slower bowlers. Spinners can themselves be divided into categories. Ones who take the ball in the powerplay (Mujeeb Ur Rahman, Axar Patel, Maheesh Theekshana) and ones who come on after. The most aggressive are the wrist-spinners who come in after the field goes back. Yuzvendra Chahal, Adam Zampa and Wanindu Hasaranga to name a few. Because of the evolution of match-ups in recent years, all of them also possess a mean googly so as to be comfortable against a negative match-up.

Netherlands win, SL keep their hopes alive

AGENCIES @ Geelong

NETHERLANDS made heavy weather of a small target before eking out a five-wicket win against Namibia in the T20 World Cup here on Tuesday. This is Netherlands' second victory in as many games and keeps them firmly in contention for a place in the next round. Netherlands dished out a fine bowling effort to restrict Namibia to 121 for six before taking the game deep. They completed the task in 19.3 overs in their first round Group A match.

Vikramjit Singh (39) and Max O'Dowd (35) got Netherlands' chase off to a blazing start, sharing 59 runs for the opening wicket. However, Netherlands slumped to 101/four, thanks to twin blows from JJ Smit (2/24). But Bas de Leede (30 n.o) held his nerves and saw Netherlands home with a 20-run stand.

Meanwhile, Sri Lanka made a strong comeback, beating UAE by a massive 79 runs. Opener Pathum Nissanka hit a 60-ball 74 with the help of six boundaries and two hits over the fence to take Sri Lanka to 152/8. UAE never looked in the chase as Dushmantha Chameera (3/15) inflicted the early damage. They werebowled out for 73 in 17.1 overs. Brief scores: Namibia 121/6 in 20 ovs (Frylinck 43; Bas de Leede 2/18) lost to Netherlands 122/5 in 19.3 ovs (Vikramjit 39); Sri Lanka 152/8 in 20 ovs (Nissanka 74; Zahoor 2/26) bt UAE 73 all out in 17.1 ovs (Chameera 3/15).

HIJAB ISSUE

Worry grows for Iranian climber Rekabi

AP @ Seoul

AN Iranian female competitive climber left South Korea on Tuesday after competing at an event in which she climbed without her nation's mandatory headscarf covering, authorities said. Farsi-language media outside of Iran warned she may have been forced to leave early by Iranian officials and could face arrest back home, which Tehran quickly denied.

The decision by Elnaz Rekabi, a multiple medalist in competitions, to forgo the headscarf, or hijab, came as protests sparked by the September 16 death in custody of a 22-year-old woman have entered a fifth week. Mahsa Amini was detained by the country's morality police over her clothing.

A later Instagram post on an account attributed to Rekabi described her not wearing a hijab as 'unintentional," though it wasn't immediately clear whether she wrote the post or what condition she was in at the time. Rekabi left Seoul on a Tuesday morning flight, the Iranian Embassy in South Korea said. The BBC's Persian service, which has extensive contacts within Iran despite being banned from operating there, quoted an unnamed 'informed source' who described Iranian officials as seizing both Rekabi's mobile phone and passport.

BBC Persian also said she initially had been scheduled to return on Wednesday, but her flight apparently had been moved up unexpectedly. IranWire, another website focusing on the country founded by Iranian-Canadian journalist Maziar Bahari who once was detained by Iran, alleged that Rekabi would be immediately transferred to Tehran's notorious Evin Prison after arriving in the country. Evin Prison was the site of a massive fire this weekend that killed at least eight prisoners.

In a tweet, the Iranian Embassy in Seoul denied 'all the fake, false news and disinformation' regarding Rekabi's departure on Tuesday. But instead of posting a photo of her from the Seoul competition, it posted an image of her wearing a headscarf at a previous competition in Moscow, where she took a bronze medal. Calls to the Iranian Embassy in Seoul rang unanswered Tuesday.

Karnataka go top with huge win

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

KARNATAKA enjoyed a dominating 10-wicket win over Arunachal Pradesh to be on top of Group C in the Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy. After bowling out Arunachal for 75, Mayank Agarwal and Devdutt Padikkal knocked off the runs in just 6.5 overs. Elsewhere, Tamil Nadu (Group E) and Andhra kept up their hopes of advancing to the knockout stages with contrasting wins but Kerala lost ground on the leaders after going down to Maharashtra.

Andhra downed Bihar with two wickets and as many balls to spare. Chasing 182, they got off to a below average start before No 7 Karan Shinde's whirlwind 75 off 38 set them on the path to victory. Tamil Nadu limped to 138 but defended the total thanks to the four tweakers. While Washington Sundar (1/31) and Varun Chakravarthy (1/20) played the supprting cast, R Sai Kishore (3/6) and Murugan Ashwin (2/29) wrecked the Jharkhand line-up.

India keeper Sanju Samson failed to live up to expectation as Kerala went down in a chase of 168 against Maharashtra. Samson, who was No 6, made only three as the side never really got going. For Maharashtra, India opener Ruturaj Gaikwads sparkled with a 114.

DAY'S DIARY

State of emergency

Chile's President Sebastian Pinera declared a state of emergency in the capital Santiago on this day in 2019 as the city descended into chaos

THE PROTESTS

The protests began as a student-led demonstration against transport fares. Enraged black-hooded protesters lit fire at several metro stations, looted shops and burned bus

RESTRICTIONS AHEAD

The state of emergency was initially for 15 days and restricted freedom of movement and assembly. National Football Association was also suspended

EVENTS THAT FOLLOWED

More than 30 people died in the unrest that followed the 2019 demonstrations while right-wing President Sebastian Pinera's government came under fire

With the Wildscreen Festival happening on October 21 and 22, CE speaks to the festival organisers and Bengaluru's Adarsh NC who won the prestigious Wildscreen Panda award, also know as the green Oscar

ON February 10, 2009, when climate scientist Susan Solomon published her paper 'Irreversible climate change due to carbon dioxide emissions', she informed the world a grim fact: 'we are doomed'. What the research paper revealed was that the increase in carbon emissions in the 20th century has already set the tone for climate change for the next 1,000 years. Now, 13 years since the paper's release, the necessity to spread awareness about nature conservation is even higher.

Keeping that thought in mind, this city will host the Wildscreen Panda Awards, also known as the green Oscars, at the Bangalore International Centre for the first time, on October 21 and 22. While it's good news that this festival is taking place in the city, the bigger highlight is that a fellow Bengaluruean, Adarsh NC, has won a Wildscreen Panda Award for 'outstanding achievement in production management'. For being the first person ever to win a Panda award for production, Adarsh feels honoured. "It definitely feels great to be receiving this award. Production is a thankless job, nobody in this department usually gets an award in any festivals. So winning this makes me very happy that I made my state and country proud," says Adarsh, who is the head of productions at Felis Creations.

As someone who has been producing nature documentaries and conservation films for over 25 years, Adarsh feels there's no generalised method to tackle conservation. "For each area, the conservation aspect needs to be dealt in a different way, one that suits the area. For example, the problem in Bandipur will be different to the one in Nagarahole. It is very localised and you have to involve the people living there if you want to make any real change," he says.

To curb Bengaluru's reducing green cover, he feels the city should adopt the motto 'tall tower, green cover'. "By 'tall tower, green cover', I mean the city should grow vertically and not horizontally. Instead of spreading the city's horizons to wider areas, we should try to see if the city can sustain itself from within. In many other metropolises, you see tall towers that can hold many people. But if you focus on growing horizontally, you're eating into the greed for layout and housing. The recent flooding of the lakes here was a prime example that we're not being contained within a specific area. Now, we're facing the brunt of widening of the city rather than the growing of it," explains Adarsh, who adds that despite its problems, Bengaluru is very conscious about the environment compared to other cities.

As to why, the city was chosen to host the Wildscreen Festival, Sangeetha Kadur, one of the organisers of the event shares," Bengaluru has a substantial number of nature enthusiasts compared to other places. This city has the highest number of wildlife organisations than any other place in India. On top of this, we have a huge number of researchers, scientists and conservationists. So this is the perfect Indian city to host this event. No doubts about it."

STORY BEHIND THE FESTIVAL

Wildscreen is a UK-based charity and this festival, of which the award show is a part of, is one of the leading international festivals on natural history storytelling and wildlife filmmaking. This festival has been happening in the UK every two years since 1982. This will be their 40th year and they decided to organise it in three global hubs. One of them is in Bengaluru, the other two being in Cape Town, South Africa and Nairobi, Kenya.

It definitely feels great to be receiving this award. Production is a thankless job, nobody in this department usually gets an award in any festivals. So I am very happy that I made my state and country proud

Adarsh NC, Wildscreen Panda Awardee

QUESTIONS

1. The iconic Mysore Sandal Soap has a history of over a century which began its manufacturing from a small unit set up near KR Circle by the Mysore Government in 1916. The idea to have an indigenous product from the sandalwood oil extracted from the locally grown sandalwood trees was initiated by the then Maharaja Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar and was executed by Sir M Visvesvaraya. Name the company owned by the government of Karnataka which produces the soap?

2. Mysore Lamps, once an iconic brand which had grown into an household name across India started in the year 1936 is on its last legs today with the winding up process had already begun. The manufacturing unit was set up on a vast 21 acre land adjacent to one of the earliest residential extensions of Bengaluru. Can you name the locality?

3. Karnataka is one of the largest producer of silk in the country and its well known 'Mysore Silks' brand has been awarded with a GI (Geographical Indication) tag in 2005. Initially started as a small manufacturing unit set up by the then Maharaja, Nalvadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar to meet the royal needs and for the armed forces was later handed over to the Government of Karnataka. Name the company which today owns the renowned Mysore Silks brand?

FIT BIT

BADDHA KONASANA UTTANASANA
(BOUND ANGLE FORWARD BEND)

Baddha Konasana Uttanasana means a complete forward stretch with the feet and the knees bound or caught. It is considered a base pose as Bound Angle Forward Bend Variations can be derived from this pose.

STEPS
- Sit in Dandasana (Staff Pose). Inhale, bend knees, bringing the feet, with soles touching each other, close to your pelvis.
- Exhaling completely, raise the spine upwards, using the strength more from the lower back.
- Now, hold the toes, or clasp the hands around toes, with fingers interlocked, stretching the arms out. Breath deeply and slowly. Elongate the spine pushing the hips towards the floor.
- Remain here in Bada Konasana for 6 breaths. Exhale and take the torso forward, throwing pelvic first, then lower abdomen, upper abdomen, chest, chin and forehead.
- Exhale and stretch the spine forward as much as possible, pushing the inner thighs, making knees touch the floor comfortably.
- Extend the arms out in front of you, to the maximum and using the neck strength walk with the fingers on the floor.
- Remain here for about 8 breaths or more, and with every exhalation take the torso forward and the face downward towards the floor.
- To release, inhale and lift your head up first, then chest, upper abdomen, lower abdomen and finally the pelvis. Exhale and come to Baddha Konasana. Repeat.

BENEFITS
- Improves flexibility of knees and ankles.
- Tones hamstring and calf muscles.
- Entire spine stretches making it strong and flexible.
- Expands and contracts pelvic muscles & ligaments of pelvic floor.
- Helps support the entire genital region.
- Forces the internal organs, like stomach, intestines, kidneys, pancreas, liver and genitals to do their part efficiently.
- Supports the spine and upper torso during meditation.
- Helps to soothe menstrual discomfort, which brings to normal internal activity of the ovaries.

LIMITATIONS

Practise with care, when your waist and neck remain erect. People suffering from sciatica should not practise it.

People with deep lower back problems or suffering from slip disc should take proper guidance from a yoga expert.

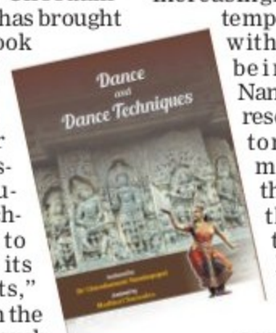
Renowned historian Choodamani Nandagopal talks about her new book and importance of researching dance forms

DESE GOWDA

INDIA has a rich history of traditional and ceremonial dance forms which are thought to have originated around 200 BC. But there is still much to be known about these dance forms, which often transport performers into a heightened sense of being and leave audiences in awe. But there is a dearth of accessible materials for enthusiasts who want to learn about these forms in a systematic manner.

To assuage this problem, art historian and UNESCO Hirayama Fellow, Choodamani Nandagopal has brought out her newest book – Dance and Dance Techniques. "This handbook is for people, either aspiring dance students, or researchers, who want to study dance and its technical aspects," she explains. With the help of her research assistant Madhuri Surendra, Nandagopal has attempted to consolidate the fundamentals of classical dance techniques, along with the history and evolution of various dance traditions.



Having started her dance journey at a very young age, Nandagopal feels that her experience allowed her to balance her scholarly interest with that of interest of dance students. "I've been dancing since I was five, so that experience allowed me to ensure that the theoretical aspects of dance didn't overshadow the practical ones," she says.

A sociologist and historian by training, Nandagopal is often considered the premier authority on Karnataka's various dance traditions. Through her research on the sculpture of the 'Badami Natesha', she played a crucial role in establishing that Karnataka's dance tradition was much older than originally thought. "The Badami sculpture of dancing Shiva is the first and foremost sculpture that acts as evidence for the Natya Shastra tradition's existence in Karnataka as early as the 6th century CE," she explains.

As the newer generations increasingly embrace contemporary art forms, with classical dance being side-lined, Nandagopal feels that research into the history of dance is more important than ever to ensure that these ancient traditions are not lost. "People were always surprised at me for researching dance," she says. "People thought it was a practical field with no scope for research. But I continued and proved that through research, the quality of performances and composition can be improved."

Currently serving as Dean of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences at Jain University, Bengaluru, Nandagopal has established a department of cultural studies there to facilitate further research. Furthermore, through the Karnataka Bharatagama Pratishtana in Bengaluru, she has been hard at work, propagating the classical dance heritage of the state.

'It was a governance failure & corporate fraud of the gravest order'

TURNING PAGES

IN 1987, a serial entrepreneur, Ramalinga Raju, founded Satyam Computer Services, an export-oriented software services company in Secunderabad. As we saw earlier, Satyam partnered with Dun & Bradstreet Corporation for IT services and held a minority stake in the latter's subsidiary in India, a company that later became Cognizant Technology Solutions. Satyam moved on from this investment, got on to the Y2K bandwagon at the end of the 1990s, and witnessed a period of rapid growth. By the beginning of the 2000s, Satyam was one of the top five Indian IT services companies, with a strong capability in the hot and emerging domain of ERP implementation.

One of the most dramatic events in the history of the Indian IT industry occurred in January 2009 when Raju sent a bombshell of a letter to Satyam's board of directors with a copy to the stock exchanges and the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI). The letter was a confession that Satyam's cash and bank balances were inflated, and that it had an understated liability and an overstated debtor position. That was not all—the company's revenue and profit margins were inflated for the September quarter of that financial year. It was a governance failure and corporate fraud of the gravest order. The line in the letter—'It was like riding a tiger, not knowing how to get off without getting eaten'—has now passed into Indian IT folklore.

This letter sent shockwaves across the government, IT industry and NASSCOM. In fact, Raju had been an active member of NASSCOM and had been its chairperson during 2006–07. Kiran Karnik, who was NASSCOM's president in those years, puts the scandal in context: 'This was a very shocking case because Satyam was very highly regarded and had received all the possible awards for governance . . . they were audited by not just some auditor but by one of the global top-four companies. The concerns were threefold. First, people would lose their jobs if the company just wound up; 50,000 jobs gone . . . The second concern was (that) a big company among the top five going under was not a very good signal. Third was what it did for (the reputation of) the Indian IT industry in terms of customers abroad suddenly getting concerned and asking the question, "What about other vendors in India, should we be looking elsewhere?" So, India as a favoured destination for IT might take a hit. At a broader level, India was seen as a great investment destination. Would this (incident) indicate poor governance standards in India and put off investors?'

The way the government assessed the context of the scandal with the IT industry and NASSCOM was proactive and supportive. Karnik remembers the decision-making process and says, 'One strong view was—"It is terrible and sad, but this is part of the corporate world. Companies suddenly go under and shareholders will lose. We are very concerned about people who (might) lose their jobs. But frankly, what do we do?" There was a view at the other extreme—"This is terrible. It is a disaster for the country. A loss of 50,000 jobs, and (a situation) with political implications. Let us nationalize the company."

'Finally, after a lot of discussions, which some of us were involved in, the government took a sensible approach. It did not take over the company, but the government superseded the existing board and put its own nominees there; initially the three of us—Deepak Parikh, C. Achuthan and I—and three others were added later.'

The primary focus of the government-appointed board was on Satyam's clients and employees. The board assured the clients that they would ensure uninterrupted service and even do a smooth transition to a different vendor if the client needed that. This assuaged the immediate concerns of the clients who had chosen Satyam because of its competence. The board boosted the morale of the employees by reiterating that the entire company was not at fault and that this scam was committed only by a few individuals; and that the board was doing all it could to ensure that the business remained ticking.

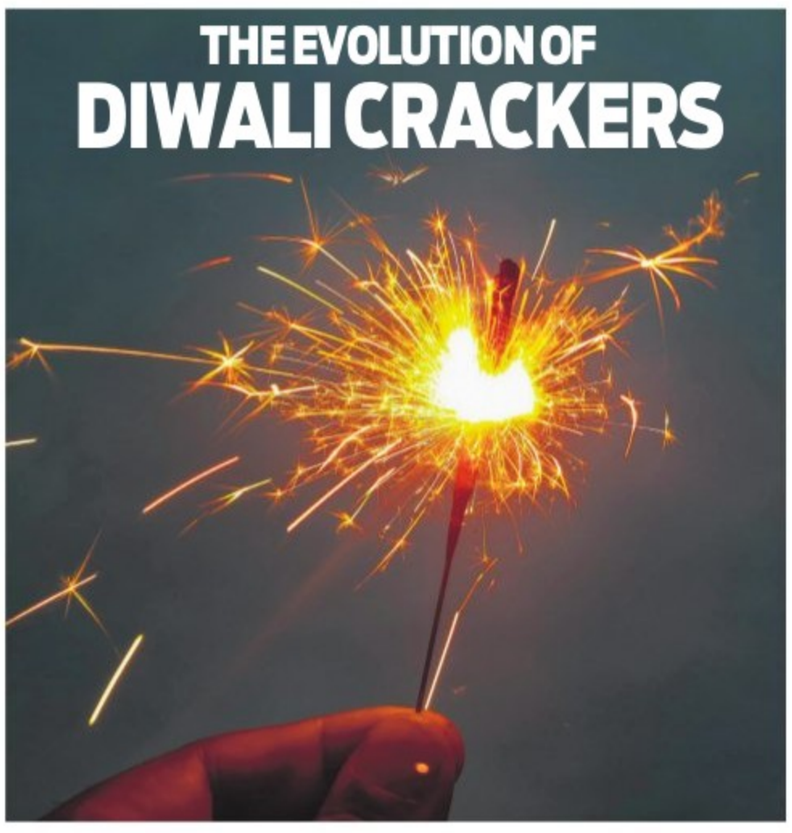
THE EVOLUTION OF DIWALI CRACKERS



HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon

(Writer, comedian)

FOR years, Diwali competed with Holi for the title of my favourite festival. New clothes, crackers, and vacations. Sweets distributed to neighbours, friends and colleagues. Diwali is the only festival that sometimes makes me wish I had an office job - just so that I could dress up, eat sweets, and laugh fakely at my boss's jokes. Holi on the other hand, seems like a party that only youngsters can attend. You throw colours at each other, get drunk, and sully your clothes. But the next day seems like an unwanted trip to Azkaban. The head hurts, the clothes are torn, and it takes days to wash off the traces of pink hidden in the crevices of your body.

For years, Diwali suffered under the pressure of woke activists who advised us not to burst crackers. The reason given was the pollution caused by crackers on that night. Of course, these statements were made by celebrities who took a private jet to their chosen destination. The celebrities endorse and own fast-fashion brands that contribute to 10% of the world's annual carbon emissions. Perhaps that's the reason they are called 'woke'. Their arguments are lazy enough to put the listener to sleep. Thankfully, the youngsters of today do not have to go through the insufferable arguments of the unnecessarily woke.

Diwali for me will always be about the crackers. The smell of charcoal, sulphur and steel powder overtakes the smells of your favourite Iyengar bakery for a few days. Those who don't burst crackers judge the ones who do from their windows. And those who burst crackers cock a snook at those who stay cocooned inside their houses even on Diwali night.

As the owner of a curious mind, I often visit the local crackers stall to look at the most-selling crackers. Every year, I hear stall owners bemoan the entry of online websites selling crackers. Much before e-commerce sites arrived, big billion sales existed in every local market. I notice that some crackers have maintained their relevance over the decades. Rockets, for example, seem to have retained their position at the top. It is hard to compete with a cracker that shoots itself into the sky and explodes into a bouquet of colours. The curiously named 'Atom Bomb' and 'Hydrogen Bomb' seem to have aged well too - maintaining consistency in their shape and design. The 'flowerpot' has also adapted to modern times, thanks primarily to their Instagram-friendliness.

But a few glorious crackers seem to have gotten lost in time. The 'snake tablet' that left permanent scars on the floor - has been banned for its polluting abilities. The chakri - bought by both elders and children in its heyday - doesn't seem to be as popular. Even the 'onion bomb' - which strangely actually looked like a garlic - is not to be seen in most cracker markets. Also missing are the local crackers that every state had. These weren't made by the geniuses at Sivakasi - but rather in local markets using ropes, cloth, and locally sourced, 100% organic 'gunfire'.

But my favourite of all Diwali crackers - the pistol reel - seems to be missing from the markets. The cracker that I used to shoot at imaginary ghosts, and invisible villains. I would shoot, blow at the pipe, and stuff the gun back (carefully) into my pocket. Diwali is celebrated to mark the return of Rama to Ayodhya after vanquishing the enemy army. But back in the day, me and my gun were capable enough to destroy a thousand monsters - under the bed, on the staircase, and in my mind. Happy Diwali!

A still from Head Bush

'Academics and practical knowledge have given me the confidence to handle a project independently'

CE FEATURES

ALTHOUGH Head Bush marks Shoonya's directorial debut, he brings a decade of experience to his maiden project. "I have worked as an assistant director since 2009. I have been an associate with filmmakers like Rakshit Shetty, Suni, Aravind Shastry, and Pawan Kumar. Having said that, my training comes with my education. I've done my M.Sc in filmmaking, and I'm in the final year of pursuing my Ph.D. in films," says Shoonya, adding, "Academics and practical knowledge have given me the confidence to handle a project independently."

Shoonya credits writer Agnee Sridhar for giving him such a big break in his first film. "I connected with him at a book launch event a few years ago, and till today, he treats me like his son. In fact, Agnee Sridhar was in no frame of mind to take up films and was completely into social activities. However I managed to convince him, and finally, he agreed, and then, Head Bush happened. I consider this as his favour to me," he says.

Delving deep into the making of Head Bush, which is based on Agnee's autobiography, My Days in the Underworld, Shoonya says that the film will be realistic, and feel close to the incidents that took place in the period 1974-78. "The book is out in 3 volumes, and the first part of the two-part Head Bush only explores Volume 1. With the audience's support, we can definitely explore this world even further," says Shoonya.

Head Bush has a rather extensive ensemble at the centre of things. "We have eight heroes and two heroines playing the leads and that includes Dhananjay as MP Jayaraj, Raghu Mukherjee as MDN, Vasishta Simha as Kotwal Ramachandra, Yogi as Ganga, Balu Nagendra as Samson, Roshan Bachchan as KK Raja, Ravichandran as a professor, Devaraj, Poorna Chandra Mysuru, Sruthi Hariharan and Payal Rajput. This apart, we have a few character artists like Prakash Belawadi, Ankita, and Sampath among others playing pivotal roles. Along with the cast, we had at least 500 junior artists every day during shooting."

Shoonya, who enjoyed the process of making Head Bush, says that the difficult part of working on the film was answering the naysayers and doubters. "I was bombarded with questions like 'How can you handle such a big project?' or 'How can you handle so many established actors?' But I'm confident that my work in Head Bush will do all the talking," he says. Backed by Daali Pictures and Somanna Talkies, Head Bush, with music by Charan Raj, is hitting the screens this week on October 21.

KANTARA TO GET A TULU VERSION SOON

A SHARADHAA

RISHAB Shetty's Kantara, which was released in theatres on September 30, has made 100 crores across the globe. The action drama backed by Hombale Films is doing well in all the languages and is still running with packed houses all over. The Telugu version alone has crossed ₹10 crores within 2 days of its release. The film has also been getting good responses from Tamil and Hindi trade circles and the Malayalam version will get released in theatres this week.

The latest news is the blockbuster film will also get a Tulu version soon. The subject, the culture, and the rituals showcased in Kantara are closely related to the coastal region and especially the people of Tulunadu. It may be noticed that there was a widespread campaign on social media, insisting the makers to release the film in Tulu.

The dubbing process for The Tulu version is on, however, the release date is yet to be confirmed. Kantara has cinematography by Arvind Kashyap, and music by Ajaneesh Lokanath. It has an ensemble cast that includes Kishore, Achyuth Kumar, Pramod Shetty, Prasad Thuminad, Swaraj Shetty, and Manasi Sudhir.

Sapthami Gowda wants to take it slow post the success of Kantara

The actor talks about the responses to her role in Rishab Shetty's Kantara, says it is very rare for a heroine to get this kind of exposure right in her second film

CE FEATURES

SAPTHAMI Gowda continues to carry the signature style of her Leela from Kantara by wearing two nose pins to this interaction. She has been doing the promotional rounds with writer-director and actor Rishab Shetty, and feels very grateful and overwhelmed with the kind of exposure she has been getting with this film. The 2-film-old heroine shares that she owes everything to the production house, and the director.

Kantara, produced by Hombale Films, was initially just projected as a Kannada film, and later became a pan-Indian film by sheer word-of-mouth. "This helped me meet people in different states. While it is understandable that Rishab is going places to talk about the film, I am happy that the team also gave me that big opportunity to share the stage with them. I'm sure it will take me a long way," she says.

Sapthami, who has heard the audience reactions from different parts of the country, says they connected with the content and the core value of our belief system. "Irrespective of the state and religion they belong, everyone related to the divinity, the rituals, the customs, and their conversation was never complete without mentioning the climactic portions," says Sapthami, who said that the viewers also shared their valuable opinions about Leela, and her relationship with Rishab's Shiva.

With Kantara becoming an unstoppable force at the box office, Sapthami feels that whenever a good cinema wins, the artists too get the limelight. "Every actor in the film, even those who had blink-and-miss roles got recognition," says Sapthami.

When asked how she is planning to make use of this fame from Kantara, Sapthami says, "A lot of people, especially in my close circle, have advised me to go slow, and be choosy about my next project. They feel I can survive better in this industry by being a performer rather than just a heroine. The right projects can prolong the shelf life of an actor. I waited for one-and-half-years for Kantara, which was worth every moment. I feel waiting for some more time to choose my next would be the right move," she signs off.

Thimmayya & Thimmayya makers eye a Nov release

CE FEATURES

THE first look teaser of Thimayya & Thimayya featuring Diganth and Anant Nag, which was unveiled recently received a heartwarming response from the netizens. The makers are planning to release the songs, followed by a theatrical trailer, and hope to come to release the film in theatres in the second week of November.

"The teaser was a fun roller coaster ride and it introduced the audience to the world of Thimmayyas. Essentially, this is a story of a grandfather and a grandson, who meet after 30 years. A series of events forces them to stay together for three months. When they stay under one roof, they rediscover themselves and the missing connection between them. The film is a light-hearted comedy which talks about the importance of familial ties," says ad filmmaker, Sanjay Sharma, who is making his directorial debut with the film.

Thimayya & Thimayya produced by Rajesh Sharma has Aindrita Ray playing Diganth's love interest. The real-life couple has earlier teamed up for films like Manasare, Parijatha, and, Kshamisi Nimma Katheyali Hannavilla.

Thimayya & Thimayya also has Shubra Aiyappa playing the other female lead. The film has been shot in unique locations Bengaluru, Madikeri and Mysuru. It has music by Anoop Seelin scoring the music and cinematography by Balakrishna Thota.

'I was scared when I first saw a film'

KARTIK BHARDWAJ

IF you have seen Chhello Show or The Last Film Show or have just watched the trailer, you will appreciate the amalgamation of colour and light. The kids running in the green fields, basking in the yellow sunlight; the tints of blue, white and red at the railway station where nine-year-old protagonist Samay sells tea; the dance of multi-colour grainy images on a bedsheet used by the cinephile squad to make their personal theatre. These are some of the crowning strokes in Pan Nalin's magic of hues, Chhello Show.

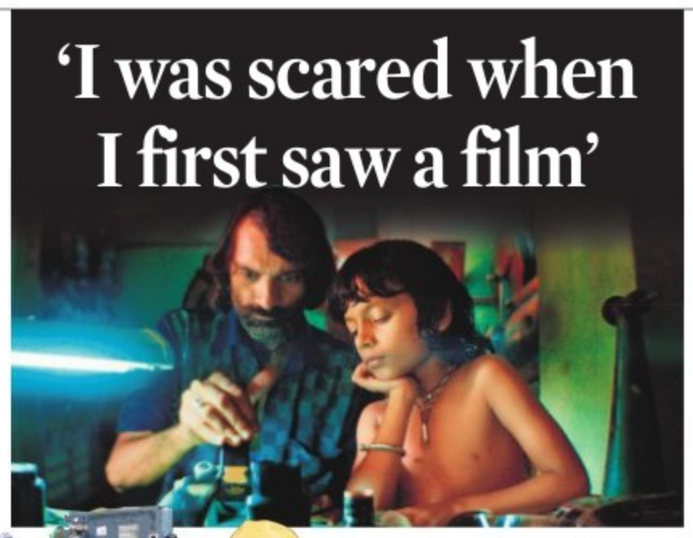
"Maybe that's why I wear black every day. I love so many colours that I can't choose one," he says.

The film is India's official entry to The Academy Awards in the International Feature Film category. Before the news broke, some groups on social media were either rooting for the spectacle RRR or the polarising The Kashmir Files. On the other hand, Chhello Show was a surprise pick for the masses but not for the 17 jury members of the Film Federation of India (FFI), who unanimously chose the film. Its US distributor Samuel Goldwyn Films, and French counterpart Orange Studio also stated that it is a "strong contender" at the Academy. Even Ashutosh Gowariker, the director of Lagaan (2001), one of the three Indian films nominated for the awards, asked Nalin and producer Dheer Momaya to get their suits stitched for the Oscar night when he saw Chhello Show. However, Nalin was not convinced. "I was happier to find a distributor. Samuel Goldwyn was picking an Indian film for the first time, that meant something. We surely were thrilled when the news broke but my focus was always to show the film to more and more people."

Chhello Show was mired with controversy when it got selected. There were allegations that the film contended year too and that no film can be in the run twice. It was also labelled as a foreign film because it has a French co-production. "I am an Academy member, the last thing I will do is not follow the guidelines," says Nalin. "The Academy has gone through a lot of changes in the last two-three years because of the pandemic and the war in Ukraine. They released a circular recently stating that any film which could not be released in 2021 and which is released before November 30, 2022, is eligible to apply. We released the film on October 14, that is our qualification. Secondly, whoever is saying that my film is not Indian should go on the internet and see that my cast and crew are all from different parts of the country."



Pan Nalin

Gujarat's Saurashtra is well-illuminated in Chhello Show. The story of Samay, his discovery of cinema, and his fascination with light are all shared by Nalin. "Not only it is inspired by events in my childhood, but I also ended up shooting in the theatre I used to frequent as a child. Even the galla (money box) shown in the film is my father's from when we used to sell tea. He saved it and said that it is a reminder of what we were and how far we have come."

Although Nalin's film, full of homages to masterpieces like Pather Panchali (1955) and 2001: A Space Odyssey (1968), expresses his love for the medium, his first movie-watching experience was both mesmerising and frightening. "Like Samay, my first film was also Jai Mahakali (1951). When I saw it in the theatre and there was a crash zoom on Kaali's face, I got scared and jumped from my chair. It was a Lumiere brothers' The Arrival of a Train moment for me," he recalls. "But when I saw the dust particles being illuminated by the beam coming from the projector room, I was hypnotised."

The director discovered "English" films only after he went to Baroda and later to Ahmedabad for further studies. "Till then I had only watched Hindi popular cinema or masala films. When I first saw a Western, I was like where are the song and dance sequences? When I went to the National Institute of Design in Ahmedabad I started managing the film club there. I also got a camera and was shooting short films. To fund that, I started working as a wedding photographer. My life was like this: after shooting a proper gujju wedding video, I used to come back and watch a Robert Bresson film in the evening and the next day I went to watch an Amitabh Bachchan film with friends. It was all cinema to me, without barriers," he says.

But has he ever thought of making a big-budget masala film? "I need to fall in love with the story. I don't want to do something formulaic. After the pandemic, it is important for filmmakers like me to do a film with a star, a studio or a streamer. But not at the cost of my S, for story."
